Venezuelan Troops Quell Bloody Rioting In Caracas

Army Smashes Leftists; Three Dead, 120 Hurt

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Crack army troops poured into the battle-strewn streets of Caracas Monday night to smash bloody and destructive rioting against the government.

President Romulo Betancourt said the systematic waves of violence were launched by Communists and other leftists seeking to overthrow him and set up a Castro-style revolutionary regime in Venezuela.

Even schoolboys subverted by the leftists were reported firing on police with pistols during the day.

The fourth straight day of hoodlum attacks, without let-up, prompted the Moderate Socialist President Betancourt to call out the army and suspend civil guarantees.

"We do not want, we will not tolerate and there will be no civil war in Venezuela," Betancourt declared in a radio-TV broadcast from tank-guarded Miraflores Palace.

Three Killed, 120 Wounded

Betancourt specifically blamed Communists and the Movement of the Revolutionary Left for the disorders. They have resulted in 3 dead, more than 120 wounded and vast property damage from vandalism and sabotage.

At least 16 persons were injured in the latest outbreaks, including 6 wounded by gunfire.

Eyewitnesses said police were shot at by snipers on rooftops and leftist students holed up in a downtown school.

Street violence subsided, at least temporarily, following the appearance of army units flown here from the interior.

Troops patrolled thickly populated working class sections in western Caracas while riot police and national guardsmen guarded the central and eastern sectors.

Earlier, several hundred youths, mostly teen-agers, roved in small bands, battling police, smashing windows and burning cars and buses. They were armed with guns, fire bombs and stones.

Rioters Shout "Cuba Si"

With tear gas and smoke mingling in the city streets, Betancourt denounced the disorders as preliminaries in an effort to oust his government and install in Venezuela "a regime similar to that which exists in Cuba."

"I am going to call these extremists by their full names," he said. "They are the Communist party and the Movement of the Revolutionary Left."

Shouts for Fidel Castro and "Cuba si, Yankees no" have marked the demonstrations in this capital of Latin America's richest nation, once one of Cuba's firmest friends. Venezuelan oil used to flow to Cuba, 800 miles away across the Caribbean, before Castro confiscated the American-owned refineries there and turned to the Soviet Union for oil.

Government Rapped In Apalachin Case

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal appeals court Monday upset the prison sentences of 20 delegates to the 1957 underworld convention at Apalachin, N.Y. The government, which had boasted of the convictions, was soundly criticized for its handling of the case from start to finish.

The three-man U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, unanimously dismissing the convictions, called the government's case "a boot-strap operation" based on "crash methods."

The opinion, in effect, accused the government of setting up a series of unproven assumptions, and then belaboring the defendants because they refused to go along with them. The prosecution never should have been started at all, the opinion held.

"In America, we still respect the dignity of the individual, and even an unsavory character is not to be imprisoned except on definite proof of specific crime," it added.

Actually, the 20 defendants have not been imprisoned. They have been free on bail pending the appeal since they were sentenced last January to federal sentences ranging from three to five years on conspiracy charges.

There was no immediate word from Washington on whether the government will seek to carry the reversal of the convictions to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The 20 were convicted a year ago under a conspiracy indictment which the government hailed as a strong, new lever against organized crime in this country. The Justice Department at the time forecast that "syndicated crime may soon have its death knell."

The government offered an unusual argument during the trial here. First, it assumed that the gathering at Apalachin had a sinister motive—such as carving up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of what is sometimes called the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition in the House met Monday amid speculation that some maneuver will be tried next year to shake up the conservative House Rules Committee.

In a huddle where Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind., Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of the rules committee, and Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., who ranks next to Smith among majority members of the committee.

But they gave no hint as to the topics discussed.

The House Rules Committee clears legislation for consideration on the House floor. Liberals have complained that it has bottled up liberal-type legislation such as bills dealing with school aid, medical aid to the aged, minimum wages, and the like.

Some of his legislation was advocated in the Democratic party's 1960 platform.

During the latest session, Democrats out numbered Republicans on the rules committee 8-4, but on occasion Smith and Colmer sided with Republicans to block bills approved by other Democrats.

Several moves to change the committee setup to break this blockade have been proposed.

Halleck and Colmer both were mum about Monday's meeting on just what was discussed at the conference.

Presumably, however, the discussions dealt with the possible changes which might be advanced and ways they might be countered.

British Delegate R. N. Quirk declared it must serve peaceful purposes only and must not be concerned with developing heavy carrier rockets.

Lumumba Flees His Villa; Congo Army In Pursuit

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congolese army Monday was ordered to pursue and capture fugitive ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba before he can reach his political stronghold of Stanleyville. His flight raised the threat of civil war in this troubled nation.

Lumumba drove past sleepy Congolese soldiers watching his villa Sunday night, leaving behind a statement saying he was going to Stanleyville for the funeral of his infant daughter.

But his political foes, President Joseph Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu, the army chief, seemed far from reassured by his promise to return within a few days for Kasavubu's unity conferences.

Kasavubu has promised to call a conference of all factions shortly.

Kasavubu and Mobutu were astounded when the news of Lumumba's flight reached them at Brazzaville, capital of the Congo Republic across the river from Leopoldville.

Kasavubu and Mobutu had gone to Brazzaville for that republic's independence celebrations. But they took advantage of the occasion to discuss Congo unity with two dissident leaders, President Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province and President Joseph Kalonji of the so-called Mining State in Kasai Province.

Kasavubu remained in Brazzaville, but Mobutu hurried back to Leopoldville after ordering his army to try to head off Lumumba.

Snowstorm, Gale Winds Hit Midwest

Drifts Close Some Roads; Huge Waves Pound Lakes Cities

By The Associated Press

The worst storm of the season hit the Midwest Monday with numbing cold, drifting snow and violent winds.

The stricken area had been softened up for the Sunday-Monday punch by some of the most balmy Thanksgiving holiday weather on record.

The Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas, Iowa, and Michigan fell victim to snow and ice with its attendant hazards, slippery or snow-drifted roads, snapped utility lines and dangerous blowing.

All the Great Lakes were given gale warnings. The worst winds were churning Lake Superior.

Waves Pound Port Area

Huge waves pounded the harbor area of the Twin Cities of Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., and the Lake Superior north shore. Gusts of 72 miles an hour broke windows in the Duluth ship canal light-house. The wind also knocked out the radio direction finder and the foghorn.

Highway 61, running along the Lake Superior shore from Duluth to Grand Marais, Minn., a stretch of about 100 miles, was closed.

Two traffic deaths, in Minnesota and North Dakota, were blamed on blowing, drifting snow. The death of an airplane pilot in a Nebraska crash also was laid to the storm.

Six inches or more of new snow appeared likely to accumulate over the area, drifting under north to northwest winds 30 to 60 m.p.h.

Utility Lines Down

Utility lines were reported down in many parts of the Dakotas. Mitchell, S.D., had about three inches of new snow blowing so hard that visibility was zero.

In Winner, S.D., the temperature was 10 above and snow whipped by winds of 40 to 45 m.p.h. cut visibility to 100 feet.

Drifts three to four feet deep piled up around Ewing, Neb., where the mercury plunged to 9 above. The Scottsbluff, Neb., area had a nine-inch fall amid winds exceeding 60 m.p.h.

The snow had ended at daybreak Monday in Colorado but ice-caked roads forced closing of some schools.

Whites Boycott Two Schools At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Angry white parents boycotted two integrated public schools Monday, condemning four Negro first graders to virtual segregation once again.

"You've got the whole school to yourself now," yelled a woman as three of the 6-year-old pioneers in Deep South school integration entered McDonogh No. 19 school.

Seven U.S. marshals ushered the trio into McDonogh and three others accompanied the Negro girl who went into William Frantz School.

Howling and jeering spectators numbered about 100 at McDonogh but only about 15 women were at William Frantz, the quietest school opening since integration began two weeks ago.

A week's holiday for the city's 93,000 public school pupils watered down the heat of those who demonstrated violently week before last.

Truancy and absence in the rest of the city's white schools dropped to nearly normal for a Monday. There was a 99.9 per cent boycott of William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19.

British Charge Of Colonialism Angers Soviets

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)

Britain injected the issue of Soviet colonialism into General Assembly debate Monday over Premier Khrushchev's demand for immediate independence of all peoples living under colonial and U. N. trusteeship systems.

The move brought angry Soviet charges that Britain was poking into the internal affairs of the Soviet Union and resorting to cold war tactics. The clash marked the opening of debate expected to last more than a week.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister V. I. Zorin assailed the U. N. trusteeship system as an outmoded and an ineffective instrument of the colonial powers and declared it must be scrapped.

The United Nations established the trusteeship system to replace League of Nations mandates. It has served as a watchdog for all the world's dependent territories, receiving reports from administrators and listening to complaints from the people themselves.

David Ormsby-Gore, British minister of state for foreign affairs, accused Zorin of using the assembly debate "simply as another occasion for vilifying my country and its allies, and for carrying the cold war into Africa, in the hope that perhaps it can be hotted up to its advantage."

Ormsby-Gore said that since 1939 about 500 million people, formerly under British rule, had achieved freedom and independence.

In that same period, he added, "the whole or part of six countries, with a population of 22 million, have been forcibly incorporated into the Soviet Union. They include the world's three newest colonies — Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia."

Talks Defended Even Though No Commitment Won

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower disclosed Monday that he has abandoned hope of persuading West Germany to share the cost of maintaining U.S. troops in that country as one means of stemming the flow of dollars from the United States.

But the President declared that the European mission of two top administration officials last week proved "most useful" even though the aides failed to win a commitment from West Germany.

Eisenhower issued a special statement on the controversial trip after conferring for 90 minutes with his emissaries — Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon.

Troop Upkeep Plan Spurned

The main purpose of their mission was to persuade the West German government to take over the costs of supporting U. S. troops in West Germany which is running about $600 million a year. The proposal was firmly rejected by the Bonn government.

The Anderson-Dillon mission was criticized for the way it was handled. Diplomatic sources both in this country and abroad said the administration should have known that the proposal was objectionable to the German government.

Germany feels that any such payment arrangement should be worked out through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The Germans were said to feel that the direct payment plan smacked too much of the occupation costs they bore until 1955.

Ike's Instructions Carried Out

The President said in his statement that Anderson and Dillon, "both in substance and in presentation, carried out my instructions." He also said the proposal "had been made known in advance" to the West German government.

The Anderson-Dillon mission had come under attack in some quarters on grounds that German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had not been sounded out in advance. The President said that while there was no agreement on the German payment proposal, "the discussion contributed greatly" to a growing understanding by Europe of the problems posed by the heavy flow of gold from the United States.

He said West Germany had agreed to continue discussions on other proposals designed to help halt the flow of U. S. gold.

President-Elect, Ike Meet Dec. 6 At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy said Monday night he is not concerned with Republican challenges of the presidential election vote in a number of states.

"My information is the count has been accurate," he said.

Kennedy told reporters this on the steps of the Georgetown home of Dean Acheson, former secretary of state, amid indications he may be nearing a choice of a secretary of state.

Emerging from a conference with Acheson, Kennedy gave no indication who he might have in mind for his administration's top foreign policy post.

And as to whether he offered Acheson a job, Kennedy said, "That is not what I came to see him about."

Tuesday, Kennedy will be host at breakfast to Rep. Chester A. Bowles of Connecticut, who was his foreign affairs adviser during the campaign and has been mentioned for secretary of state.

Shortly before Kennedy went to see Acheson, the White House announced Kennedy and President Eisenhower will meet Tuesday of next week to discuss ways of smoothing the changeover of the nation's leadership.

Believes Tally Correct

After conferring with Acheson, Kennedy paused outside and was asked whether he was concerned with Republican efforts to force vote recounts in such states as Illinois and Texas, which he carried by thin margins.

Kennedy said among other things that a Senate committee has asked for information on this subject, that the votes have been counted many times, and that to the best of his information, the tally was correct.

Kennedy spent an hour and a quarter with Acheson, who headed the State Department in the Truman administration.

The president-elect walked eight blocks from his own home to Acheson's at a pace faster than former President Harry S. Truman used to set around Washington.

Asked the purpose of the call, Kennedy said he came to get Acheson's views on a number of matters.

Dodges Acheson Job Query
To a question whether he had offered Acheson a position in the new administration, Kennedy replied: "We discussed some of the responsibilities I bear."

There has been speculation that Kennedy might recruit Acheson, now a member of a Washington law firm, at least as adviser or consultant.

The president-elect ducked a question whether the flow of American gold overseas was discussed by saying he and Acheson covered a wide range of topics.

Kennedy pushed through newsmen and cameramen, climbed into a limousine, and drove off to Georgetown University Hospital for his second visit of the day to his wife and his new son born early Friday.

The Eisenhower-Kennedy meeting had been expected, but only (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police made a routine check of a lovers' lane in the Portland West Hills and came upon an automobile with the stab-punctured body of a 19-year-old youth inside. A pretty girl companion, who police believe was with him at the time of the slaying, has vanished and may be a kidnap victim.

The body of Larry Ralph Peyton, a student at Portland State College, was found Sunday night curled up on the blood-soaked front seat. There were 14 stab wounds in the chest and nine in the back—all made by a 4-inch-long blade.

The youth also suffered a blow on the head which caused a skull fracture.

Peyton had spent Saturday evening with Beverly Allen, 19, of Port Townsend, Wash., a student at Washington State University at Pullman, Wash. They had dinner that night at Peyton's home with his parents and then went out for the evening.

The 20 were convicted a year ago under a conspiracy indictment which the government hailed as a strong, new lever against organized crime in this country. The Justice Department at the time forecast that "syndicated crime may soon have its death knell."

The government offered an unusual argument during the trial here. First, it assumed that the gathering at Apalachin had a sinister motive—such as carving up gangland territory and rackets. But the appeals court said: "Perhaps the most curious feature of this strange case is the fact that after all these years there is not a shred of legal evidence that the Apalachin gathering was illegal or even improper in either purpose or fact."

Secondly, the government assumed—and the jury agreed—that the Apalachin delegates, knowing their gathering was illegal, put their heads together to cook up a story that would deceive future federal and state investigators—a story that they stated Nov. 14, 1957, at the upstate New York home of the late Joseph Barbara Sr. only because he was ill and they wished to pay him their respects. Barbara died June 17, 1959.

Of this, the appellate court said: "We hold that the evidence was insufficient to show that the defendants had reason Nov. 14, 1957, to anticipate that any of them would be called to testify under oath about the events of that day."

Disquieting to the two pro-Western Congolese leaders was the knowledge that Lumumba's top lieutenants already are in Stanleyville, capital of Oriental Province. They are said to be organizing an anti-Western regime designed to restore Lumumba to power.

West Europe Space Agency Discussed

MEYRIN, Switzerland (AP)—Experts from 10 West European nations, eager to catch up with the United States and the Soviet Union in the drive for outer space, met Monday to prepare a European space research organization.

A quickly developing issue was the question whether such an organization should develop the powerful first-stage carrier rockets required to boost its satellites aloft or obtain them from existing industries.

Belgian, Italian, Dutch and Swiss delegates said they would prefer that the envisaged organization deal with all aspects, from launching pads up.

British Delegate R. N. Quirk declared it must serve peaceful purposes only and must not be concerned with developing heavy carrier rockets.

Snowstorm, Gale Winds Hit Midwest

Drifts Close Some Roads; Huge Waves Pound Lakes Cities

By The Associated Press

The worst storm of the season hit the Midwest Monday with numbing cold, drifting snow and violent winds.

The stricken area had been softened up for the Sunday-Monday punch by some of the most balmy Thanksgiving holiday weather on record.

The Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas, Iowa, and Michigan fell victim to snow and ice with its attendant hazards, slippery or snow-drifted roads, snapped utility lines and dangerous blowing. All the Great Lakes were given gale warnings. The worst winds were churning Lake Superior.

Waves Pound Port Area

Huge waves pounded the harbor area of the Twin Cities of Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., and the Lake Superior north shore. Gusts of 72 miles an hour broke windows in the Duluth ship canal light-house. The wind also knocked out the radio direction finder and the foghorn.

Highway 61, running along the Lake Superior shore from Duluth to Grand Marais, Minn., a stretch of about 100 miles, was closed.

Two traffic deaths, in Minnesota and North Dakota, were blamed on blowing, drifting snow. The death of an airplane pilot in a Nebraska crash also was laid to the storm.

Six inches or more of new snow appeared likely to accumulate over the area, drifting under north to northwest winds 30 to 60 m.p.h.

Utility Lines Down

Utility lines were reported down in many parts of the Dakotas. Mitchell, S.D., had about three inches of new snow blowing so hard that visibility was zero.

In Winner, S.D., the temperature was 10 above and snow whipped by winds of 40 to 45 m.p.h. cut visibility to 100 feet. Drifts three to four feet deep piled up around Ewing, Neb., where the mercury plunged to 9 above. The Scottsbluff, Neb., area had a nine-inch fall amid winds exceeding 60 m.p.h.

The snow had ended at day-break Monday in Colorado but ice-coated roads forced closing of some schools.

Whites Boycott Two Schools At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Angry white parents boycotted two integrated public schools Monday, condemning four Negro first graders to virtual segregation once again.

"You've got the whole school to yourself now," yelled a woman as three of the 6-year-old pioneers in Deep South school integration entered McDonogh No. 19 school, Seven U.S. marshals ushered the trio into McDonogh and three others accompanied the Negro girl who went into William Frantz School.

Booting and jeering spectators numbered about 100 at McDonogh but only about 15 women were at William Frantz, the quietest school opening since integration began two weeks ago.

A week's holiday for the city's 33,000 public school pupils was turned down the heat of those who demonstrated violently week before last.

Truancy and absence in the rest of the city's white schools dropped to nearly normal for a Monday. There was a 99.9 per cent boycott of William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19.

William McAdoo Jr. Plunges To His Death

NEW YORK (AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo Jr., 65, whose late father was secretary of the Treasury under President Woodrow Wilson, was killed Monday in a plunge from the roof of a nursing home.

Ike Considers Bonn Mission "Most Useful"

Talks Defended Even Though No Commitment Won

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower disclosed Monday that he has abandoned hope of persuading West Germany to share the cost of maintaining U.S. troops in that country as one means of stemming the flow of dollars from the United States.

But the President declared that the European mission of two top administration officials last week proved "most useful" even though the aides failed to win a commitment from West Germany.

Eisenhower issued a special statement on the controversial trip after conferring for 90 minutes with his emissaries—Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon.

Troop Upkeep Plan Spurned

The main purpose of their mission was to persuade the West German government to take over the costs of supporting U. S. troops in West Germany which is running about $600 million a year. The proposal was firmly rejected by the Bonn government.

The Anderson-Dillon mission was criticized for the way it was handled. Diplomats sought both in this country and abroad said the administration should have known that the proposal was objectionable to the German government.

Germany feels that any such payment arrangement should be worked out through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The Germans were said to feel that the direct payment plan smacked too much of the occupation costs they bore until 1955.

Ike's Instructions Carried Out

The President said in his statement that Anderson and Dillon, "both in substance and in presentation, carried out my instructions." He also said the proposal "had been made known in advance" to the West German government.

The Anderson-Dillon mission had come under attack in some quarters on grounds that German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had not been sounded out in advance. The President said that while there was no agreement on the German payment proposal, "the discussion contributed greatly" to a growing understanding by Europe of the problems posed by the heavy flow of gold from the United States.

He said West Germany had agreed to continue discussions on other proposals designed to help halt the flow of U. S. gold.

Iowa Girl's Steer Grand Champion

CHICAGO (UPI)—A honey-blond Iowa farm girl's 1,050-pound pet Monday was declared grand champion steer of the International Live Stock Exposition and unofficial king of the nation's barnyards.

The top blue ribbon of the nation's greatest farm show went to Hecy, a handsome brown and white yearling Hereford owned by 15-year-old Kaye Pollock of Mount Auburn, Iowa.

Kaye, the solid sentimental favorite of the International Amphitheatre crowd of 5,000, sobbed "it's just wonderful, wonderful."

Kaye's Hecy (the name is short of "Hercules") was the fourth straight junior grand champion of the exposition to move on to the ultimate prize.

He charged that in provinces of the Soviet Union itself nearly a million people were uprooted from their homes and deported.

British Charge Of Colonialism Angers Soviets

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)

Britain injected the issue of Soviet colonialism into General Assembly debate Monday over Premier Khrushchev's demand for immediate independence of all peoples living under colonial and U. N. trusteeship systems.

The move brought angry Soviet charges that Britain was poking into the internal affairs of the Soviet Union and resorting to cold war tactics. The clash marked the opening of debate expected to last more than a week.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister V. I. Zorin assailed the U. N. trusteeship system as an outmoded and an ineffective instrument of the colonial powers and declared it must be scrapped.

The United Nations established the trusteeship system to replace League of Nations mandates. It has served as a watchdog for all the world's dependent territories, receiving reports from administrators and listening to complaints from the people themselves.

David Ormsby-Gore, British minister of state for foreign affairs, accused Zorin of using the assembly debate "simply as another occasion for vilifying my country and its allies, and for carrying the cold war into Africa, in the hope that perhaps it can be hotted up to its advantage."

Ormsby-Gore said that since 1939 about 500 million people, formerly under British rule, had achieved freedom and independence.

In that same period, he added, "the whole or part of six countries, with a population of 22 million, have been forcibly incorporated into the Soviet Union. They include the world's three newest colonies—Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia."

He charged that in provinces of the Soviet Union itself nearly a million people were uprooted from their homes and deported.

'Doctor Of Year' Dislikes AMA And Kennedy Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's "general practitioner of the year" Monday said "a form of blackmail" in the legislation endorsed by the American Medical Association to finance medical care for aged persons unable to pay for it.

But he doesn't like the broad, Social Security approach favored by President-elect John F. Kennedy, either, and thinks the states and the doctors should do the job.

Dr. James T. Cook, 44, of Marianna, Fla., made his comments at a news conference shortly after the AMA had named him the 14th recipient of its annual award to a general practitioner "who has made an outstanding contribution to his community."

Cook was asked his view of recently enacted legislation under which medical care for the aged unable to pay for it would be provided by federal grants matched by state funds.

"That's a form of blackmail—I don't approve of it," he said, explaining that he meant that such a system forces a state to put up equal money in order to get a grant from the federal government.

(Actually, the new law fixes the federal share at least 50 per cent but can go up to 80 per cent in states of lowest per capita income. And in many cases states won't have to put up a cent to get the extra old age assistance money, being credited with funds they already are spending for public assistance.)

But, almost in the same breath, he said he is strongly opposed, as is the AMA, to proposals by Kennedy and others that medical care for all the aged be financed through Social Security taxes.

Not Worried Over Recount Bids By GOP

President-Elect, Ike Meet Dec. 6 At White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy said Monday night he is not concerned with Republican challenges of the presidential election vote in a number of states.

"My information is the count has been accurate," he said. Kennedy told reporters this on the steps of the Georgetown home of Dean Acheson, former secretary of state, amid indications he may be nearing a choice of a secretary of state.

Emerging from a conference with Acheson, Kennedy gave no indication who he might have in mind for his administration's top foreign policy post.

And as to whether he offered Acheson a job, Kennedy said, "That is not what I came to see him about."

Tuesday, Kennedy will be host at breakfast to Rep. Chester A. Bowles of Connecticut, who was his foreign affairs adviser during the campaign and has been mentioned for secretary of state.

Shortly before Kennedy was to see Acheson, the White House announced Kennedy and President Eisenhower will meet Tuesday of next week to discuss ways of smoothing the changeover of the nation's leadership.

Believes Tally Correct

After conferring with Acheson, Kennedy paused outside and was asked whether he was concerned with Republican efforts to force vote recounts in such states as Illinois and Texas, which he carried by thin margins.

Kennedy said among other things that a Senate committee has asked for information on this subject, that the votes have been counted many times, and that to the best of his information, the tally was correct.

Kennedy spent an hour and a quarter with Acheson, who headed the State Department in the Truman administration.

The president-elect walked eight blocks from his own home to Acheson's at a pace faster than former President Harry S. Truman used to set around Washington.

Asked the purpose of the call, Kennedy said he came to get Acheson's views on a number of matters.

Dodges Acheson Job Query To a question whether he had offered Acheson a position in the new administration, Kennedy replied: "We discussed some of the responsibilities I bear."

There has been speculation that Kennedy might recruit Acheson, now a member of a Washington law firm, at least as adviser or consultant.

The president-elect ducked a question whether the flow of American gold overseas was discussed by saying he and Acheson covered a wide range of topics.

Kennedy pushed through newsmen and car-cramen, climbed into a limousine, and drove off to Georgetown University Hospital for his second visit of the day to his wife and his new son born early Friday.

The Eisenhower-Kennedy meeting had been expected, but until

Youth, 19, Slain; Girl Believed Kidnap Victim

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police made a routine check of a lovers' lane in the Portland West Hills and came upon an automobile with the stab-punctured body of a 19-year-old youth inside. A pretty girl companion, who police believe was with him at the time of the slaying, has vanished and may be a kidnap victim.

The body of Larry Ralph Peyton, a student at Portland State College, was found Sunday night curled under the blood-soaked front seat. There were 14 stab wounds in the chest and nine in the back—all made by a 4-inch-long blade.

The youth also suffered a blow on the head which caused a skull fracture.

Peyton had spent Saturday evening with Beverly Allen, 19, of Port Townsend, Wash., a student at Washington State University at Pullman, Wash. They had dinner that night at Peyton's home with his parents and then went out for the evening.

Sheriff's deputies, FBI agents and police fanned through the timber and brush-covered hills Monday in search of some trace of Miss Allen.

Hopes Dim For Improved Farm Prosperity In '60s

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of economists Monday painted a less-than-rosy picture of prospects for farm prosperity in the 1960s.

Neither did it offer hope for significant reductions in what the taxpayers spend for farm aid programs.

The economists, in a staff report to the Senate-House Economic Committee, estimated that seven cents from every federal tax dollar now are used for agricultural purposes.

They said the farm programs themselves cost about $3 billion a year, while storage and handling of surplus crops acquired by the government through price support purchases have soared to around $1 billion a year.

The report said farm families entered the 1960s with their individual incomes relatively lower than at any time since the depression of the 1930s, as compared with the incomes of nonfarm families.

The report, prepared under the supervision of committee staff aide John W. Lehman, espoused no particular farm program.

However, Lehman said the economists agreed that farm prices and income would shrink drastically if current price support, production control and conservation reserve programs were abandoned without being replaced by some alternative program.

Negro Sit-Ins At Annapolis Ask Jury Trial

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Five Annapolis Negroes, charged with trespassing after a sit-in demonstration at a segregated restaurant here, Monday asked for a trial by jury.

Attorney Tucker R. Dearing of Baltimore made the request after Magistrate Robert Heise had denied his motion to quash the charges.

Those charged include two businessmen, William Henry Jackson and Lacey McKinney; two school teachers, Mary M. Carroll and Ethel Mae Thompson, and a dentist, Dr. S. P. Callahan.

They were arrested at a restaurant adjoining the Baltimore and Annapolis Bus terminal building Friday night. They refused to leave when they were denied service.

Mike Kokinos, whose wife is listed as owner of the restaurant, brought the charges.

At Monday's hearing, Dearing charged that "had they been white persons they would have been served in this restaurant." Dearing said that Kokinos' "private discrimination" was in violation of the 14th amendment to the constitution.

He said the Maryland statute under which the demonstrators were charged "if applied in this instance is unconstitutional."

Meanwhile, Negro picketing continued in front of the restaurant and a carry-out food shop across the street. Kokinos owns the carry-out shop, which serves Negroes.

No date has been set for a Circuit Court hearing.

Suspect Accused Of Second Holdup

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A railroad brakeman brought before police court Monday on an armed robbery charge faced a second similar charge before he was through.

Stanley J. Rochinski, 28, Greenbelt, was called before Judge George J. O'Hare for preliminary hearing on a charge of a $65 hold-up of the Household Finance Corp. office in Langley, Md., last Tuesday.

Minutes before court convened, Rochinski was served with another warrant in the holdup of the Associated Loan Co. in Bladensburg, Md., on Nov. 1. Employees of that company identified him as the man who took $673 there.

Rochinski's attorney, Stanley Dietz waived both preliminary and grand jury arraignment for his client.

Prelates Blast Red Influence In Cuba Regime

HAVANA (AP) — Two Roman Catholic prelates have met Fidel Castro's renewed attacks on the church with declarations implying his revolution is more Communist than Christian.

Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Boza Masvidal of Havana and Archbishop Enrique Perez Serantes of Santiago assailed the revolution in statements read or distributed in two provinces Sunday.

Then the prime minister in a Sunday speech that ran into the early morning hours Monday accused some priests of preaching counterrevolution for pay.

Two noise bombs exploded nearby as Castro addressed a rally at Havana University—part of a series of 19 or 20 touched off in the biggest counterrevolutionary demonstration yet in Havana. Neither casualties nor injuries were reported.

A statement from Archbishop Perez Serantes was critical of Cubans who try to halt the reading in churches of his pastoral letters assailing Communist influence in the Castro regime. He said such attempts were "shameful and insolent."

"We are happy when a moment arrives when we suffer abuse in the name of Jesus," said the archbishop's circular, read in all churches in Santiago and surrounding Oriente Province.

"However, we protest energetically and with every dignity against aggressive and unjust proceedings."

This was a reference to the attacks by Castro sympathizers on Santiago Cathedral when one of his pastoral letters was being read two weeks ago.

Greyhound Pact Ratified

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Members of the Motor Coach Employees Union in 10 states and the District of Columbia have ratified a new two-year contract with the Atlantic Greyhound Division of the Greyhound Corporation, a union official said Monday.

Ellis B. Franklin, financial secretary of Local 1943, said the agreement, retroactive to Nov. 1, was approved in a mail ballot by members 667 to 99.

Provisions of the new contract covering company terminal workers and drivers include:

A cost of living clause to be continued for two years; hourly wage rates increased 10 cents per hour Nov. 1 and an additional 8 cents per hour Nov. 1, 1961; mileage rate increases to drivers — from 10.7 cents to 11.1 cents per mile, effective Nov. 1 and from 11.1 to 11.4 cents a mile a year hence.

The old hourly pay rates were not disclosed.

Drivers also received a semi-monthly guaranteed wage of $175, effective Nov. 1 and increasing to $180, semi-monthly, Nov. 1, 1961.

The pact covers, among others, bus company employees in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia.

N. Y. Police Hold Bomber Suspect

NEW YORK (UPI)—An escaped mental patient and explosives handler who had been trailed by police was held as a "red-hot suspect" in New York City's Sunday bombings Monday after he walked into police headquarters and complained that detectives were spying on him.

A city-wide search was on for Walter Long, 30, at the moment he registered his complaint. Detectives participating in the largest manhunt in the city's history had been following Long for eight days before they lost him Friday morning when he failed to report for his job as a blasting powder and dynamite handler.

Monday no firm time or date had been set. It will be the first face-to-face meeting of the outgoing and incoming presidents since the Nov. 8 election which saw Democrat Kennedy defeat Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Eisenhower's choice.

However, representatives of Eisenhower and Kennedy have been working together on transition problems since soon after the election.

Kennedy's spokesman, Pierre Salinger, wouldn't be drawn out in advance on the detailed purpose of the Kennedy talks with Acheson and Bowles.

Salinger told a news briefing Acheson "is a man who has had considerable experience, and I think the senator—Kennedy—wants to seek out his advice and counsel."

Asked if the appointment with Bowles meant Bowles might be named secretary of state, Salinger said he "wouldn't want to draw any conclusions."

In the past, Salinger has stressed to newsmen that people Kennedy has been talking to were not being considered for appointment but were being asked for advice.

Lighter, Plastic Money Suggested By Britain's Mint

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Mint came out Monday for plastic money that would be cheap to make, light to carry, brightly colored and easier on the pocket.

The idea is not a retreat from hard currency but a serious suggestion, insisted John Hastings James, deputy master and controller of the mint, in his annual report.

The mint turned out a record 707 million coins last year, most of them big and heavy enough to wear holes in the poorest pocket.

Lighter, Plastic Money Suggested By Britain's Mint

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Mint came out Monday for plastic money that would be cheap to make, light to carry, brightly colored and easier on the pocket.

The idea is not a retreat from hard currency but a serious suggestion, insisted John Hastings James, deputy master and controller of the mint, in his annual report.

The mint turned out a record 707 million coins last year, most of them big and heavy enough to wear holes in the poorest pocket.

Numbers To Replace Names In Md. Telephone Exchanges

BALTIMORE (AP)—For years, expansion and modernization of telephone service has meant substituting a name exchange and number for a number alone.

Residents of smaller towns often felt they were going "big city" when they got their exchange, whether it was MOnument, REgent or ACademy.

Now, the telephone company is reversing its field. Name exchanges throughout Maryland are going to be replaced by numbers.

A spokesman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. said the gradual process taking several years could "possibly start early in 1961."

The reason is they're running out of names and more combinations are possible with numbers than with letters, about 800 as compared with 600.

Every increase in population creates a need for a new telephone exchange. C&P said suitable names already are running low in Maryland.

"Suppose somebody in South Baltimore ended up with the exchange KLondike," the spokesman said. "Mechanically, it might be the only one left that the machinery would recognize — 55. I don't think people would like it."

Other states, such as Michigan and Virginia, already have begun changing back to numbers. The paper pulp and matches are changing back to numbers. The major industries in Sweden.

Maryland Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grave-side services were held Monday at Arlington National Cemetery for James Joseph Henahan, 29, of Kensington, Md.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County, Md., coroner, said the cause of Henahan's death one week ago will not be known until late this week when the result of an autopsy will be determined.

Henahan sustained a fractured skull Aug. 21 when he was struck by a car. He was admitted to a hospital in Takoma Park that day and was released Sept. 19.

Dr. Broschart said Henahan apparently was physically well when discharged from the hospital, but had a mental condition.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Magistrate Robert Heise denied a motion to quash trespassing charges against five Negro sit-in demonstrators and sent the case to circuit court for a jury trial.

The three men and two women were arrested Friday night when they refused to leave a restaurant at the Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad Co.'s bus terminal where they were denied service.

Attorney Tucker R. Dearing of Baltimore, representing the defendants, made the motion to dismiss charges against them and requested a jury trial.

The trespassing charges were brought by Mike Kokinos, proprietor of the restaurant. Magistrate Heise ordered the bonds of $102.50 under which the demonstrators had been free since shortly after their arrest.

Those charged are William Henry Jackson, 41, and Lacey McKinney, 38, both businessmen; Dr. S. P. Callahan, 36, a dentist; and Mary M. Carroll, 39, and Ethel Mae Thompson, 46, both school-teachers. All are Annapolis residents.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Symphony orchestra left Monday for a two-week tour of the South.

The orchestra played Monday night in Newport News, Va. Other appearances are scheduled in Goldsboro, Cullowhee and High Point in North Carolina; Charleston, Greenwood and Clemson in South Carolina; Blacksburg, Va.; Gainesville, Fla.; and Augusta and Athens, Ga.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The second of four prisoners who escaped from the Montgomery County jail Sunday night was captured Monday. Search for the two still at large was centered in the Takoma Park area.

Police speculated that the two fugitives may have been driving two white sport cars which were chased at high speeds along New Hampshire Avenue in Takoma Park. One driver escaped on foot after wrecking one of the cars which had been stolen in the District of Columbia. The other driver sped away.

Recaptured in Rockville was Thomas Crozier, 19, Baltimore. Police said he was driving a car stolen from a Rockville used car lot.

The other prisoner back in custody is a juvenile who surrendered shortly after the jail break.

The remaining fugitives were identified as Richard Jarnigan, 19, of Silver Spring, and John Weldon, 19, a sailor.

FERNDALE, Md. (AP) — An Anne Arundel County carpenter charged in the shotgun slaying of his wife was arraigned Monday before Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd in Ferndale Police Court.

John D. McClain Sr., 43, of Magoths Beach, was held without bail for a hearing Tuesday night in Mountain Road Police Court.

McClain's 35-year-old wife, Dorothy, mother of three children, was found shot to death Sunday night in their plain, sparsely furnished cinder-block home.

The English war bride lay just inside the door to the bedroom, shot once in the chest. A 12-gauge shotgun was on the living room floor, its stock broken by blows from a hatchet.

In the home at the time of the slaying were the McClain's two daughters and one son, and a boarder, Freddy Martinez.

It is estimated that there are ten million victims of leprosy in the world.

Sunken Patrol Boat Raised

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Coast Guard raised a submerged 40-foot patrol boat Monday but the reason it sank remained a mystery.

The search and rescue craft, which was moored at the city dock here, went down around 5:30 a. m. It had last been checked at around 1 a. m., a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The tender, Violet, which had been dispatched from Baltimore earlier in the day raised the boat late in the afternoon.

Ens. Joseph Pescrille, investigating officer, said "There are a number of reasons" why the boat could have gone down. He said the craft would be returned to Baltimore aboard the tender where a complete investigation could be conducted.

Park Land Lag Denied

BALTIMORE (AP) — Any implication that Maryland is lagging in acquisition of land for parks is "unjustified and unwarranted," said the state planning director said Monday.

A statement by James J. O'Donnell was in rebuttal to one last week by Joseph F. Kaylor, the director of Forests and Parks.

The exchange is the latest in a series which has involved the director of public improvements and a committee of the Legislature.

Kaylor said last week that the state should step up its acquisition of land to a minimum rate of 10,000 acres a year.

"The program of land acquisition contained in the master plan of this department which calls for 50,000 acres of state parks and recreation areas by 1965" should be followed, Kaylor said.

O'Donnell replied the master plan dates back to 1952. A Senate resolution of 1956 called for updating, "but if it has been, we haven't seen it," said the planning chief.

He said the state earmarked $5 million dollars for land acquisition between 1947 and 1960 and that there is a $2 million reserve.

The money has been awarded to the Department of Forests and Parks which set its own pace for acquisition, O'Donnell added.

Kaylor cited a report by Resources for the Future, Inc., which estimated Maryland should have 520,000 acres of land for recreation in the year 2,000. It now has 17,000 acres.

"That's an awful lot of land," said O'Donnell of the future estimate.

"We have to keep some land available for houses unless we all live in a mile-high skyscraper."

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Anne Baxter, who made the longest trip on record to attend the opening of "Cimarron," will be back to the USA for a premiere, from Australia again next year. Edmund Grainer, producer of "Cimarron," asked her to play the femme lead in "Chautauqua," the Day Keene-Dwight Vincent story.

"I will have to talk it over with my husband first," Anne said. Her husband Randolph Galt, who is here with her, said he doesn't want Anne to give up her career entirely, and he gave his consent.

Anne is completely happy on the ranch miles from nowhere in Australia, but not so happy that she won't make a movie now and then.

Who says the leopard doesn't change his spots? Al Zugsmith, he used to concentrate on movies with the word "sex" or sexpot in the titles has changed to "family type" pictures. Believe it or not, Al has one of those wholesome, family comedies scheduled for production in Hong Kong (of all places — it's Suzy Wong's stamping ground, I thought) — and it's titled "Bitty." He wants cute little Ginny Tui to play the youngster lost in the big city.

Zugsmith will make this for Steve Brody's Allied Artists company just as he did his recent "Don't" starring David Janssen, Patti Page and Walter Winchell.

These are busy days for Jan Sterling, what with moving into Gloria Swanson's former house in Hollywood, and reporting to work tomorrow (November 30th) to Juror-Sherpherd at Paramount. Jan is playing Tommy Sand's

Gloria and Donald O'Connor know exactly how much and what kind of food to take for three months old Don Frederick when they take him and his sister Alicia to Rome while Donald is making "The Wonders of Aladdin" for Joe Levine.

I called on the O'Connors who are now happily ensconced in Joan Crawford's mansion which they bought just before the baby was born. Gloria said she had expected to take tons of food for young Don Frederick, but Pat (Mrs. Richard) Egan while Dick was working there, said it isn't necessary to take all these supplies, because you can get almost everything in Rome.

Gloria said, "Pat took time to write a detailed account of everything I'll need."

Coren On Bridge

The table of probabilities means nothing to a declarer whose prime concern is with keeping a menacing opponent out of the lead.

That East held the king of diamonds became apparent from West's opening lead of the queen so to prevent that card from becoming an entry, declarer ducked the first trick. West continued a diamond and declarer's next concern was with the trumps. While the normal procedure with nine cards is to play for the drop, such as a play ran the risk of setting up a trick for East if he happened to hold three to the queen and, if he ever got in, the king of clubs would be subject to attack. Declarer, therefore, led a heart to dummy's king and finessed the jack on the return. When West showed out, he drew the remaining trump and ran dummies spades, discarding two of his own clubs.

The finesse of the heart was not for the purpose of winning an additional trick. If the finesse had lost to a doubleton queen in the West hand, South would hold West welcome to that trick, for the king of clubs was now safe against the enemy and the 30 points lost by taking the finesse would have been a small enough fee to pay for complete protection.

South End Group Requests Two New Signal Lights

Traffic lights at Laing Avenue and Fifth Street intersections with Virginia Avenue are a "must," representatives of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association told the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The group met with council yesterday morning before the regular session in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech to point out existing traffic hazards and the danger to pedestrians, especially children.

The subject was explored thoroughly and resulted in council starting its regular session 28 minutes late.

Plans for the lights had been discussed some weeks ago by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming. A bid in the vicinity of $15,000, however, forced delay of plans to install the lights at this time and an effort was made to have the State Roads Commission include the two signals in the overall traffic plans for the Cumberland Thruway. However, to this date, no definite answer has been received by the SRC.

Fleming repeated his comment on the lights yesterday: They are needed badly but he must know where to get the money before they can be installed.

George Hollar served as spokesman for the South End group which included Robert Keech, president, Marcus Naughton, Lawrence L. Marks, S. H. Storer Sr., George Millenson and Carl Am-tower.

Hollar said safety of citizens is involved at the two intersections and lights have to be installed, Millenson and Robert Keech voiced the opinion that someone will be killed or injured at one of the intersections which "will fall into the lap of the Mayor and Council."

Keech said it appears to boil down to the same old question such as voiced several weeks ago by Water Commissioner G. Ray Light: "We don't have the money."

Then he added, it seemed to him that on a project as important as this, the city and state could get together and find a solution. He said the situation as it exists is a definite hazard and it is "God's blessing that someone has not been killed, especially a school child."

The city is faced with the problem of raising about $8,000 for the two lights. It had been hoped that the problem could be included in plans for the Cumberland Thruway since both Laing and Fifth are parts of the Industrial Boulevard segment of the Thruway. However, there has been no commitment from the SRC.

At the suggestion of Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder, it was agreed that the city would call the SRC today to determine if anything can be done concerning the lights and the possibility was discussed that the state might install them and the city make reimbursement later.

The South End group thought the matter might be broached at a meeting December 9 with a representative of the SRC on Thruway matters but City Attorney William R. Carscaden said that meeting is for the express purpose of discussing 14 Thruway matters which are not spelled out in the construction contract. A major point is the relocation of utilities and it is unlikely that a matter such as the traffic lights would be included in the talks.

Keech said the South End association would welcome any survey the state wished to make on the matter and urged that some action be taken immediately.

Millenson asked if it would be possible to get a policeman to direct traffic at the intersections and Fleming said it would be but he would have to take a man off school crossing duty. Millenson said he did not want that. Then

We have constantly paid 4% dividends on savings for more than 21 years ever since we started business, and while hardly any other savings institution in the United States paid as much because money was "cheap". If and when money becomes cheap again, we believe we will continue to pay 4%.

We do not intend to be swayed by every wind that blows. We do not believe in tinkering with the currency and changing money rates to give business a "shot in the arm". Business needs stability, not "shots". We believe we can continue to pay 4% dividends because we are dealing in home mortgages which are a stable commodity.

Population Declines In Grant Co.

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Final 1960 census figures officially place Grant county's population at 8,253, a decrease of 5.7 per cent from the 1950 count, according to the State Chamber of Commerce.

The same figures place the population of Bayard at 484 and Petersburg at 2,079.

Over the past 10 years, West Virginia's total population has dropped 7.8 per cent from a 1950 total of 2,055,532 to 1,860,421 in 1960. Fifteen of the state's 55 counties registered population increases during the past decade. These counties are Berkeley, Brooke, Cabell, Jackson, Jefferson, Kanawha, Marshall, Mason, Mineral, Morgan, Pleasants, Putnam, Wayne and Wood.

The final figures were generally higher than preliminary census estimates, released last month by the State Chamber. The actual West Virginia population of 1,860,421 is 12,485 more than first reported. This increase is reflected in the rise, from preliminary to final totals, of 12 to 15 in the number of counties credited with population growth since 1950.

Counties hardest hit by the population loss were Barbour, Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Fayette, Logan, McDowell, Raleigh, Tucker and Webster.

Donald Weese, Patricia Smith, Mary Ann Liller, Linda Linebaugh, John Thomas, and Doyle Ours presented a skit "School Daze."

In his address Taylor, who was recently elected Prosecuting Attorney for Mineral County, pointed out "that at this Thanksgiving season one of the first things we should be thankful for is our American citizenship and living in a free democracy. We expect adults to shoulder the responsibilities of knowing the issues, serving on committees, even running for office sometimes, and being active in the word of their church, for after all, this is one of the main reasons many people came to this country."

"As youth the government helps us by seeing to it that we stay in school until we have completed the eighth grade or have attained the age of sixteen years. In this way it makes it possible for us to be better informed on issues than perhaps many adults and although we are not of voting age it is possible for use to discuss issues intelligently with adults and perhaps influence their voting. For this reason we were reminded to make the most of our school time."

After the singing of the hymn "Now In The Days Of Youth," Patricia Rotruck provided the benediction. Others attending were Ernest Ashby, Patricia Bailey, W. ## Population Declines In Grant Co.

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Final 1960 census figures officially place Grant county's population at 8,253, a decrease of 5.7 per cent from the 1950 count, according to the State Chamber of Commerce.

The same figures place the population of Bayard at 484 and Petersburg at 2,079.

Over the past 10 years, West Virginia's total population has dropped 7.8 per cent from a 1950 total of 2,055,552 to 1,860,421 in 1960. Fifteen of the state's 55 counties registered population increases during the past decade. These counties are Berkeley, Brooke, Cabell, Jackson, Jefferson, Kanawha, Marshall, Mason, Mineral, Morgan, Pleasants, Putnam, Wayne and Wood.

The final figures were generally higher than preliminary census estimates, released last month by the State Chamber. The actual West Virginia population of 1,860,421 is 12,485 more than first reported. This increase is reflected in the rise, from preliminary to final totals, of 12 to 15 in the number of counties credited with population growth since 1950.

Counties hardest hit by the population loss were Barbour, Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Fayette, Logan, McDowell, Rawleigh, Tucker and Webster.

Giving Up Our Caribbean Bases

A series of conferences on withdrawal from the major part of five U.S. military base areas in the British West Indies opens today in Tobago, following an agreement in principle, announced in London on November 8. Our alacrity in giving up bases which this nation has a right to hold until the year 2039 is understandable from several points of view, not excluding national security.

With the Polaris-armed George Washington already on patrol, most of our bases in the Caribbean are on the way to obsolescence. As every sister ship joins the pioneer nuclear-weapon submarine, these bases become less and less valuable, though continuing to be expensive.

The celebrated destroyers-bases deal with Great Britain in 1940, through which the Indies bases, as well as bases in Newfoundland and Bermuda, were acquired, stipulated that the leases would be "free from all rent." Nevertheless, they are costly to operate. We have laid out $300 million on the base at Chaguaramas, on Trinidad — which, incidentally, we still want to use.

In a propaganda sense, the foresight with which the U.S. State Department moved to meet the islands' desire to assume control over the bases is a telling reply to Nikita Khrushchev's fulminations on "colonialism" and U.S. bases abroad. It should not be lost either on Fidel Castro, nor should the West Indies Federation's pledge to "cooperate in whatever would strengthen mutual security and contribute to the continuing defense of the Western Hemisphere . . . (and) the democratic world."

Finally, this is a friendly gesture to the islands, now British colonies but soon to become an independent Commonwealth federation. As the London Times points out, the good will of the new West Indies government is likely to be more important for the effective functioning of the remaining base areas than "legal rights under a treaty signed with the British government."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

'Listen Yankee'

Professor C. Wright Mills is a professor of sociology at Columbia University. He has written a piece of press agency, "Listen Yankee," for Castro's Cuba which is neither sociology nor advantageous press agency. It is so emotionally over-cooked that it becomes tasteless. The learned professor writes:

"My major aim in this book is to present the voice of the Cuban revolutionary, as clearly and as emphatically as I can, and I have taken up this aim because of its absurd absence from the news of Cuba available in the United States today."

This might have a tone of impartiality, of the research scholar objectively seeking after the truth except that Professor Mills happens to be a member of the Castro propaganda organization in the United States which calls itself "Fair Play for Cuba Committee" which has on its list many whose names always appear on such committees. Professor Mills spent two weeks in Cuba in August 1960. One of his conclusions is that:

"I believe another source of trouble is that many North American journalists simply do not know how to understand and to report a revolution. If it is a real revolution — and Cuba's is certainly that — to report it involves much more than the ordinary journalist's routine. It requires that the journalist abandon many of the clichés and habits which now make up his very craft. It certainly requires that he know something in detail about the great variety of left-wing thought and action in the world today."

Many journalists in the United States have spent many years of their lives studying, researching, reporting revolutions. I, for instance, started this task in 1917 in the city of Petrograd where the Soviet Revolution began. I lived through nearly 14 years of revolution in China. I know other reporters who have had similar experiences — if not for so long a period, perhaps more intensely in equally difficult situations. Professor Mills has had no such experience and two weeks in Havana in August 1960 did not give it to him.

So the professor, not having knowledge or experience, resorts to a device. He will write as though he were a Cuban and as a Cuban, he will blame everything on the United States. He comes up with this learned, scholarly paragraph which I hope no editor will censor because Americans ought to see what an American professor writes when he tries to imitate a Cuban:

"The gay tourist city of Havana — in the old days it was more than a place of sin. We Cubans, like everyone else, we know all about sin, being Catholics of a sort. But in Havana, sin was also the big money for the few, and every filthy practice of the brothel for girls 12 and 14 years old, fresh from their boyfriends. On the Prado and on the narrow street called The Street of Virtues, they and their pimps solicited you — and then Batista and his henchmen got their cut."

Then he goes on to say:

"Maybe you don't know two facts about the gambling and the whoring. A lot of that gambling money ended up in the pockets of a corrupt Cuban Government, which your Government (the United States) and some of your corporations supported and helped. Also much of it ended up in the pockets of your gangsters from Chicago and New York and Los Angeles. The money you paid for your whoring sisters."

Of course, this may be some sort of special pleading but decent people do not traffic in prostitution and the Cubans would not have had this to say about their sisters but found an American professor of sociology who was willing to attribute the downfall of Cuba to the wickedness of Cuban women who took advantage of American tourists.

Professor Mills does not apparently recognize that Soviet Russia has established a political and military base 90 miles off the coast of the United States. This country has been asked by its neighbors to protect them from Cuban attacks on them, utilizing Soviet arms. Fidel Castro, Raul Castro, Che Guevara have time after time established their close association with the Kremlin. But all of this Professor Mills does not know. His book tells nothing of this. His book, being press agency, says nothing that deals with anything but the necessities of his own press agency.

'Now, Keep Your Head Down!'

Secretary Anderson's Trip: 'Super Blooper'

BONN

By Joseph Alsop

This small, normally imperturbable capital is still quivering like a jelly with the astonishment and indignation caused by the Treasury Department's final effort to mold the foreign and defense policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Chancellor Adenauer and his colleagues were neither surprised nor annoyed to be asked to help the U. S. government with its balance of payments problem. But the kind of aid that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson requested, and the way he chose to make his request left an inconceivably bad impression.

Secretary Anderson came here, to begin with, to demand nothing less than a radical permanent change in the most vital inner relationships of the Western Alliance. There is no other way to characterize the Anderson proposal that the Germans immediately assume responsibility for six hundred million dollars a year of the support costs of the U. S. troops in Germany.

Even if this is the right approach to the balance of payments problem, which is extremely doubtful, this kind of basic and permanent change is not normally made without warning or time for reflection, and almost at pistol point. But that, apparently, was the way Secretary Anderson and President Eisenhower thought the change ought to be made.

Secretary Anderson and his vast entourage arrived here late last Saturday. On Sunday U. S. Ambassador Dowling first heard, with horror, of the true nature of the Secretary's mission. It is an open secret that Dowling once made a strong plea for a different approach. But the plea was fruitless, and the great surprise was duly sprung upon the German negotiators on Monday morning.

In a personal letter to the Chancellor, President Eisenhower had mentioned support costs as one item among several that had a bearing on the balance of payments. But the Chancellor, Finance Minister Erhard and their colleagues were utterly unprepared for the spectacle that now met their eyes—the American Secretary of the Treasury frenetically, obsessively determined to discuss support cost and nothing else.

One thing that Secretary Anderson might well have discussed was the program for easing the U. S. balance of payments which Finance Minister Erhard had got ready in advance. By Erhard's estimate, this program would have assured an improvement of no less than twelve hundred million dollars in next year's payment balance. Whether or not this estimate is correct, the program contained one item about which there could be no argument. Erhard offered prepayment, in cash on the barrelhead, of the six hundred and fifty million dollar German debt for American aid, which is not normally due to be paid off for another twenty years or more.

This prepayment, which Secretary Anderson had not asked for, actually assured him of a somewhat larger sum to ease his situation than his support cost demand would have provided. At one point in the negotiation, Chancellor Adenauer underlined this fairly meaningful fact, drily adding that if the Secretary of the Treasury would just take the money he wanted now in the form of debt prepayment, basic changes in the policy of the Western Alliance could then be left for discussion in an orderly manner with the representatives of the next American administration.

The Secretary merely brushed the Chancellor aside and went straight back to the support costs. And so his mission ended in mutual bitterness and without any solid result.

Altogether, there has been no comparable episode in the whole postwar history of American diplomacy. It must be added that Secretary Anderson's fellow negotiator, Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, appears to be entirely free of blame for this episode, which has made a bad business much worse. The official spokesmen in Washington are now saying that Dillon loved every minute of it. But the Germans are convinced that he hated every minute of it—which is just as well since Dillon needs to retain the respect of America's allies if he is to take a high post under President Kennedy.

Meanwhile, the central mystery remains. Why was this grave balance of payments problem so long neglected, and then suddenly attacked in this publicly hysterical manner? Why was Secretary Anderson so obsessively fixed on the one expedient that was sure to be especially repellent to the Germans? Why was this desperate effort made to introduce a basic change in our foreign relations in the last weeks of a dying administration?

There are no easy answers to these questions. Only one thing is certain. This balance of payments problem, now further inflamed by the Secretary of the Treasury himself, is one of the more unpleasant elements in the far from pleasant heritage of President-elect Kennedy, whose power to revive the waning Western Alliance will be gravely limited by the weakness of the dollar on the international exchanges.

Election Aftermath Has Similarities To Hayes-Tilden Contest Of 1876

By Drew Pearson

States did not wield the influence in the world that it does today.

Early Tilden "Landslide" There are certain interesting similarities between the Hayes-Tilden race and the Nixon-Kennedy election. The Democrats were the "out" party. President U. S. Grant, hero of the Civil War, was in the White House just as Dwight D. Eisenhower, hero of World War II, sits there today. And Grant's administration had been troubled with all sorts of conflict-of-interest cases, somewhat similar to those of the Eisenhower administration.

Tilden, a railroad attorney, the Democratic nominee, came from a conservative background. But like Jack Kennedy, also from a conservative background, Tilden was a reformer, had cleaned up the Boss Tweed ring in Tammany, and a good many Democrats shied away from his announced plan to reform patronage.

On the night of the election, early victories in Connecticut, New Jersey and New York came in for the Democrats just as they did for Kennedy on November 8. They were hailed as a Tilden election landslide. Hayes went to bed saying he had been defeated. The morning papers proclaimed Tilden's election.

Newspapers Sparked Recount But the popular vote was close — 262,214 votes for Tilden ahead of Hayes. The Kennedy margin over Nixon has hovered around the same figure.

The Republican drive to upset the Tilden victory got started by a newspaper, just as the Nixon drive to upset Kennedy in Illinois was sparked by the Chicago Tribune. John C. Reid, news editor of The New York Times, received a telegram at 3:45 a.m. November 10, the second day after the election, in which the N. Y. Democratic state chairman asked for The Times' estimate of Tilden's electoral vote.

"If they want to know the electoral vote," remarked editor Reid to his staff, "that means they are not certain they have won. If they are still in doubt then we can go from here and win the election."

Reid, who hated everything Southern, went to Republican National Headquarters at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, woke up the chairman and got his approval for a plan of fast action. He then telegraphed Hayes' leaders in key Southern states as follows: "Hayes is elected if we have carried South Carolina, Florida, and Louisiana. Can you hold your state? Answer immediately."

There ensued a battle to bring these three Southern states in for the Republican candidate. There were two separate groups of electors competing in each state. The Republican carpetbaggers with their affiliated Negro supporters claimed victory, though it appeared that the white Democrats, bitterly resentful of carpetbag rule, probably had won. Reid's telegram was to urge Republicans to certify the carpetbag plus Negro vote as larger than the Democratic white vote.

Tilden Probably Won President Grant poured federal troops into the South to enforce the carpetbag count. General Sherman in charge of federal troops later wrote: "The probabilities were that Tilden was elected."

General Hayes, somewhat like Nixon today, wanted no part of the controversy. He told a Cincinnati newspaper: "I'm of the opinion that the Democrats have carried the country and elected Tilden."

Tilden was equally unconcerned, somewhat like Kennedy. This was his big mistake.

"The fiery zealots of the Republican Party may attempt to count me out," he said, "but I don't think the better class of Republicans will permit it."

However, they did. A seven-man board in South Carolina entrusted with certifying the electors was solidly Republican. Not one Democrat was on it. This was also true of the four-man certifying board in Louisiana and the certifying board in Florida. They brought in unanimous reports favoring the carpetbag electors — for Hayes.

Oregon, also in dispute by only one vote, was reversed in favor of Hayes.

When the Electoral Commission issued its final report on March 2, 1877, it split on a strict party-line basis. But the Republicans having appointed the commission had the majority.

Tilden decided to make no further contest. Two days later Rutherford B. Hayes, who had conceded defeat the night of the election, was sworn in as President of the United States.

Press And Its Warts

By John Crosby

The press is a slippery eel. Some years ago CBS tried to tackle press criticism but so cautiously and with such little vitality that nothing much came of it. Now "The Saturday Review" has added a once monthly section of press criticism and comment. I wish it well. We need it.

Some weeks ago T. S. Matthews, the former TIME man, who has joined "The Saturday Review" as editor-at-large, took a crack at the subject, missing by yards. Matthews seems to suffer from two wild misconceptions. For one thing, he sees absolutely no difference between newspapers and the frank commercialism of radio and television. Claims they're both in the entertainment business. This is hogwash. The shape of a newspaper — any newspaper — still resolves around the importance of the news. The shape of broadcasting is still determined by the popularity of a program or type of program. The two media are miles apart in their thinking on how to conduct their affairs.

Newspapers are not averse to popularity but they still decide — whether for good or ill — what news is important and should be on the front page. Broadcasting turns its business over to Nielsen and his decimal points. The ratings and Madison Avenue determine what is on the air and when it's on the air.

But then Mr. Matthews really puts his foot in his mouth. "Why talk about the majority? Let's look at the best representatives of the press, not the worst. Alas, dear readers of the 'Saturday Review,' the 'New York Daily News' counts for more than the 'New York Times.' As good Americans we should not even permit ourselves that alas and always remember that God must have loved 'Daily News' readers, he made so many of them — The vast majority of Americans pay no attention to this quality press — indeed are hardly aware of its existence — To believe in pre-eminence of the quality press, the minuscule minority of the whole, we have to suppose that it exerts an influence out of all proportion to its size."

That paragraph contains more misinformation and misunderstanding about the press than anything I've ever seen in a comparable space. To start at the top, the "New York Daily News" does not count for more than the "New York Times." It has millions of readers whom it has never managed to sway in any direction, particularly in elections. The "Times" readers do take it seriously.

But not only does the "Times" and most serious journalism have vastly greater impact, on a qualitative level, they also have vastly more readers. Today the "Times" news service is in thirty or forty newspapers throughout the country. James Reston has probably fifty times as many readers as Ed Sullivan. So has Walter Lippman. Tiny fraction, eh? It's the "Daily News" which is really minuscule in either readers or influence next to say, David Lawrence. (I can never remember agreeing with Mr. Lawrence about anything, but Mr. Matthews must admit he's a deadly serious journalist.)

The "vast majority of Americans" are terribly aware of the quality press. Even if they weren't, the quality press exerts an influence way out of proportion to its size. The "Times" is read all over the world. So is the "Herald Tribune." The "News" is the bible of the taxi drivers and, while they are a mighty vocal group, they don't write the nation's laws. The "Times" and "Tribune" readers do.

It's not my business to criticize the press, but if anyone is looking for an opening, there are many I could suggest. For one thing, the modern press — like our foreign policy — reacts rather than acts. This is a serious weakness, particularly under the Republicans, or under passive administration. The press will cover the indictment when it comes. But they won't go smoke it out.

Today the press is still covering crime as if it were in the East Fifty-First Street station rather than down on Wall Street. Many of the news gathering methods of the press are obsolete or obsolescent. This is a very serious hole in our free press and one that could take a lot of examination. Much of the daily fare of newspapers is written about out of sheer force of habit and has long lost its urgency. There are many other areas of enormous importance that are not covered at all.

Newborn Babies Can Have Heart Attacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A newborn infant is now the youngest person on record to have suffered a heart attack. The baby, a boy, was 1 hour old when coronary thrombosis developed and he died at the age of 18 hours.

The fatality occurred at the Royal Victoria hospital in Montreal and was reported in the New England Journal of Medicine. The Canadian physicians had been making electrocardiograms on newborns as part of an experiment they were conducting. They were astonished when the tracing on this infant — who appeared to be healthy — showed evidence of coronary artery obstruction.

Autopsy revealed narrowing of the coronary arteries by a fibrous thickening of the inner lining. Similar fibrous changes have been noted in young men who have succumbed to a heart attack. This is in contrast to the condition of the arteries of older victims of coronary thrombosis, in which narrowing stems from arteriosclerosis.

The chance discovery in the Montreal hospital demonstrated that sudden death among infants may be caused by a heart attack. The possibility was never considered before and it is doubtful if the disorder could have been diagnosed unless the electrocardiograph had been attached.

This baby was born with two strikes against him. It is doubtful if he would have lived long had he survived the initial occlusion. He would have met the same fate as other children or young men born with abnormal coronary arteries.

Obviously, there is more to heart attacks than fat in the diet and too much cholesterol in the blood.

Giving Up Our Caribbean Bases

A series of conferences on withdrawal from the major part of five U.S. military base areas in the British West Indies opens today in Tobago, following an agreement in principle, announced in London on November 8. Our alacrity in giving up bases which this nation has a right to hold until the year 2039 is understandable from several points of view, not excluding national security.

With the Polaris-armed George Washington already on patrol, most of our bases in the Caribbean are on the way to obsolescence. As every sister ship joins the pioneer nuclear-weapon submarine, these bases become less and less valuable, though continuing to be expensive.

The celebrated destroyers-bases deal with Great Britain in 1940, through which the Indies bases, as well as bases in Newfoundland and Bermuda, were acquired, stipulated that the leases would be "free from all rent." Nevertheless, they are costly to operate. We have laid out $300 million on the base at Chaguaramas, on Trinidad — which, incidentally, we still want to use.

In a propaganda sense, the foresight with which the U.S. State Department moved to meet the islands' desire to assume control over the bases is a telling reply to Nikita Khrushchev's fulminations on "colonialism" and U.S. bases abroad. It should not be lost either on Fidel Castro, nor should the West Indies Federation's pledge to "cooperate in whatever would strengthen mutual security and contribute to the continuing defense of the Western Hemisphere" (and) the democratic world.

Finally, this is a friendly gesture to the islands, now British colonies but soon to become an independent Commonwealth federation. As the London Times points out, the good will of the new West Indies government is likely to be more important for the effective functioning of the remaining base areas than "legal rights under a treaty signed with the British government."

'Listen Yankee'

Professor C. Wright Mills is a professor of sociology at Columbia University. He has written a piece of press agency, "Listen Yankee," for Castro's Cuba which is neither sociology nor advantageous press agency. It is so emotionally over-cooked that it becomes tasteless. The learned professor writes:

"My major aim in this book is to present the voice of the Cuban revolution, as clearly and as emphatically as I can, and I have taken up this aim because of its absurd absence from the news of Cuba available in the United States today."

This might have a tone of impartiality, of the research scholar objectively seeking after the truth except that Professor Mills happens to be a member of the Castro propaganda organization in the United States which calls itself "Fair Play for Cuba Committee" which has on its list many whose names always appear on such committees. Professor Mills spent two weeks in Cuba in August 1960. One of his conclusions is that:

"I believe another source of trouble is that many North American journalists simply do not know how to understand and to report a revolution. If it is a real revolution — and Cuba's is certainly that — to report it involves much more than the ordinary journalist's routine. It requires that the journalist abandon many of the clichés and habits which now make up his very craft. It certainly requires that he know something in detail about the great variety of left-wing thought and action in the world today."

Many journalists in the United States have spent many years of their lives studying, researching, reporting revolutions. I, for instance, started this task in 1917 in the city of Petrograd where the Soviet Revolution began. I lived through nearly 14 years of revolution in China. I know other reporters who have had similar experiences — if not for so long a period, perhaps more intensely in equally difficult situations. Professor Mills has had no such experience and two weeks in Havana in August 1960 did not give it to him.

So the professor, not having knowledge or experience, resorts to a device. He will write as though he were a Cuban and as a Cuban, he will blame everything on the United States. He comes up with this learned, scholarly paragraph which I hope no editor will censor because Americans ought to see what an American professor writes when he tries to imitate a Cuban:

"The gay tourist city of Havana — in the old days it was more than a place of sin. We Cubans, like everyone else, we know all about sin, being Catholics of a sort. But in Havana, sin was also the big money for the few, and every filthy practice of the brothel for girls 12 and 14 years old, fresh from their bohios. On the Prado and on the narrow street called The Street of Virtues, they and their pimps solicited you — and then Batista and his henchmen got their cut."

Then he goes on to say:

"Maybe you don't know two facts about the gambling and the whoring. A lot of that gambling money ended up in the pockets of a corrupt Cuban Government, which your Government (the United States) and some of your corporations supported and helped. Also much of it ended up in the pockets of your gangsters from Chicago and New York and Los Angeles. The money you paid for our whoring sisters."

Of course, this may be some sort of special pleading but decent people do not traffic in prostitution and the Cubans would not have had this to say about their sisters but found an American professor of sociology who was willing to Cuban women who took advantage of the American tourists.

Professor Mills does not apparently recognize that Soviet Russia has established a political and military base 90 miles off the coast of the United States. This country has been attacked by its neighbors to protect them from Cuban attacks on them, utilizing Soviet arms. Fidel Castro, Raul Castro, Che Guevara have time after time established their close association with the Kremlin. But all of this Professor Mills does not know. His book tells nothing of this. His book, being press agency, says nothing that deals with anything but the necessities of his own press agency.

'Now, Keep Your Head Down!'

Secretary Anderson's Trip: 'Super Blooper'

BONN

By Joseph Alsop

This small, normally imperturbable capital is still quivering like a jelly with the astonishment and indignation caused by the Treasury Department's final effort to mold the foreign and defense policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Chancellor Adenauer and his colleagues were neither surprised nor annoyed to be asked to help the U. S. government with its balance of payments problem. But the kind of aid that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson requested, and the way he chose to make his request left an inconceivably bad impression.

Secretary Anderson came here, to begin with, to demand nothing less than a radical permanent change in the most vital inner relationships of the Western Alliance. There is no other way to characterize the Anderson proposal that the Germans immediately assume responsibility for six hundred million dollars a year of the support costs of the U. S. troops in Germany.

Even if this is the right approach to the balance of payments problem, which is extremely doubtful, this kind of basic and permanent change is not normally made without warning or time for reflection, and almost at pistol point. But that, apparently, was the way Secretary Anderson and President Eisenhower thought the change ought to be made.

Secretary Anderson and his vast entourage arrived here late last Saturday. On Sunday U. S. Ambassador Dowling first heard, with horror, of the true nature of the Secretary's mission. It is an open secret that Dowling once made a strong plea for a different approach. But the plea was fruitless, and the great surprise was duly sprung upon the German negotiators on Monday morning.

In a personal letter to the Chancellor, President Eisenhower had mentioned support costs as one item among several that had a bearing on the balance of payments. But the Chancellor, his colleagues were utterly unprepared for the spectacle that now met their eyes—the American Secretary of the Treasury frenetically observing cost and nothing else.

One thing that Secretary Anderson might well have discussed was the program for easing the U. S. balance of payments which Finance Minister Erhard had got ready in advance. By Erhard's estimate, this program would have assured an improvement of no less than twelve hundred million dollars in next year's payment balance. Whether or not this estimate is correct, the program contained one item about which there could be no argument. Erhard offered prepayment, in cash on the barrelhead, of the six hundred and fifty million dollar German debt for American aid, which is not normally due to be paid off for another twenty years or more.

This prepayment, which Secretary Anderson had not asked for, actually assured him of a somewhat larger sum to ease his situation than his support cost demand would have provided. At one point in the negotiation, Chancellor Adenauer underlined this fairly meaningful fact, dryly adding that if the Secretary of the Treas-

GLOOMY PREDICTIONS—Now that the elections are over, there are some sobering, even gloomy, economic predictions flowing out of Washington. During the political campaign, it is now evident, the administration sat on the bad business news and tried to accentuate the positive.

However, post-election government reports show rising unemployment beyond the six per cent danger point, sagging business volume and profits, a disturbing forecast of the farmers' future.

Predictions are being freely made in Washington that John F. Kennedy's first big crisis as President will be to cope with the nation's economic ills. The slip-slide is broad-gauge; it permeates all the facets of the economy and may require emergency congressional action by the time the next session convenes in January.

Recent corporation earnings reports confirm indications that there was a continuation of the business down-drift during the third quarter of this year. It was this down-drift—lower profit margins and lower production rates—that accounted for the more than seasonal rise in unemployment to 6.4 per cent of the working force.

The outlook for farmers is even bleaker than that of industry. The forecast here is for a continuation of the trend to fewer farms and increased surpluses. The so-called "family farm" will find it more and more difficult to compete under the weight of these huge government-purchased surpluses that hang over the market, depressing prices and creating greater pressures for extreme measures.

Kennedy's effectiveness as a President may well hinge on how successful he is in persuading Congress to take speedy, adequate action on the farm and business fronts. If he acts boldly and imaginatively, and succeeds in bringing Congress along with him, he may capture the backing of the American masses as Franklin D. Roosevelt did in the depression-ridden 1930s. If he fails, the public may become so disillusioned as to render his leadership ineffectual in the four years ahead.

Election Aftermath Has Similarities To Hayes-Tilden Contest Of 1876

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The intensity with which Len Hall and top GOP strategists are pursuing the ballot recount in certain key states is reminiscent of another bitter period in American history when the Republicans managed to reverse the apparent election of another Democrat — Samuel J. Tilden.

In the current recount drive, incidentally, GOP strategists are getting a lot of secret encouragement from President Eisenhower and it's barely possible they could do what Republican leaders did in 1876 when Rutherford B. Hayes conceded to Tilden on election night, but ended up in the White House.

Much the same bitterness which highlights the present Republican determination to overturn the Kennedy victory was behind the Republican drive to reverse Tilden's victory when he came out with 184 electoral votes against Hayes's 165. Tilden needed only one more — 185 — to win. Hayes needed 20. In the end Hayes got the 20 and entered the White House. His electoral majority was one vote.

It was not until March 2, two days before the March 4 Inauguration that a special Electoral Commission decided that Hayes, not Tilden, was elected. In the interim neither the American people nor the rest of the world knew who was going to govern the USA. At that time, of course, the United States did not wield the influence in the world that it does today.

Early Tilden "Landslide"
There are certain interesting similarities between the Hayes-Tilden race and the Nixon-Kennedy election. The Democrats were the "out" party. President U. S. Grant, hero of the Civil War, was in the White House just as Dwight D. Eisenhower, hero of World War II, sits there today. And Grant's administration had been troubled with all sorts of conflict-of-interest cases, somewhat similar to those of the Eisenhower administration.

Tilden, a railroad attorney, the Democratic nominee, came from a conservative background. But like Jack Kennedy, also from a conservative background, Tilden was a reformer, had cleaned up the Boss Tweed ring in Tammany, and a good many Democrats shied away from his announced plan to reform patronage.

On the night of the election, early victories in Connecticut, New Jersey and New York came in for the Democrats just as they did for Kennedy on November 8. They were hailed as a Tilden election landslide. Hayes went to bed saying he had been defeated. The morning papers proclaimed Tilden's election.

Newspapers Sparked Recount
But the popular vote was close — 262,214 votes for Tilden ahead of Hayes. The Kennedy margin over Nixon has hovered around the same figure.

The Republican drive to upset the Tilden victory got started by a newspaper, just as the Nixon drive to upset Kennedy in Illinois was sparked by the Chicago Tribune. John C. Reid, news editor of The New York Times, received a telegram at 3:45 a.m. November 10, the second day after the election, in which the N. Y. Tilden Probably Won
President Grant poured federal troops into the South to enforce the carpetbag count. General Sherman in charge of federal troops later wrote: "The probabilities were that Tilden was elected."

General Hayes, somewhat like Nixon today, wanted no part of the controversy. He told a Cincinnati newspaper: "I'm of the opinion that the Democrats have carried the country and elected Tilden."

Tilden was equally unconcerned, somewhat like Kennedy. This was his big mistake.

Four W. Va. Rest Homes Face Closure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Health Director N. H. Dyer said Monday four West Virginia nursing homes still face possible closure for failure to undertake the prevention measures.

Dyer identified them as Kelly's Nursing Home and Riverview Rest Home, both of Parkersburg; Greenleaf Convalescent Home, Vienna, Wood County; and Minden Rest Home at Minden, Fayette County.

The operator of Greenleaf complained Monday evening that he had complied with the regulations and should not be included among the four. However, Dyer said he understood that the Greenleaf's sprinkler system is not yet connected and that the nursing home had not yet been licensed.

The state attorney general's office was asked last month to start legal action against seven nursing homes which had not complied with fire or health regulations.

Dyer said Monday Tipton Rest Home at Parkersburg, Goff's Rest Home at St. Albans and the Alcan Center, Charleston had agreed to meet requirements with the installation of sprinkler systems.

The health department last July refused to license 18 nursing homes. Most of these did not have sprinkler systems required by the state fire marshal's office since February, 1959.

Salvation Army 'Gift Basket' Termed Lottery

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Salvation Army spokesman said Monday cancellation of an annual "Gift Basket" program here would be a "severe" blow to its Christmas activities.

The Post Office Department informed the sponsoring Charleston Gazette and Station WCHS its general counsel has designated the "Gift Basket" a lottery.

Charleston Postmaster James O. Lakin said the sponsors had agreed to eliminate a provision requiring a $1 entry fee for the program which raised some $20,000 annually for the Salvation Army at Christmas-time.

However, Lakin said the department's general counsel would not alter his original stand on the program where prizes were offered to a winner. All proceeds went to the Salvation Army.

"It looks like a bleak Christmas," a Salvation Army official said Monday. "We won't be able to take care of all the people asking for our help" during the Christmas season.

Four W. Va. Rest Homes Face Closure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Health Director N. H. Dyer said Monday four West Virginia nursing homes still face possible closure for failure to undertake fire prevention measures.

Dyer identified them as Kelly's Nursing Home and Riverview Rest Home, both of Parkersburg, Greenlawn Convalescent Home, Vienna, Wood County, and Minden Rest Home at Minden, Fayette County.

The operator of Greenlawn complained Monday evening that he had complied with the regulations and should not be included among the four. However, Dyer said he understood that Greenlawn's sprinkler system is not yet connected and that the nursing home had not yet been licensed.

The state attorney general's office was asked last month to start legal action against seven nursing homes which had not complied with fire or health regulations.

Dyer said Monday Tipton Rest Home at Parkersburg, Goffs Rest Home at St. Albans and the Alcan Center, Charleston had agreed to meet requirements with the installation of sprinkler systems.

The health department last July refused to license 18 nursing homes. Most of these did not have sprinkler systems required by the state fire marshal's office since February, 1959.

Nine Arraigned In Vote Fraud

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI)—Nine of 11 persons indicted on election fraud charges by a Logan County grand jury pleaded innocent here Monday before special Judge Stanley Bosworth of Elkins.

The other two — Jack Hobbs and Lionel Morgan — failed to appear for the arraignment.

Bosworth upheld 28 of 29 indictments against the 11. He dismissed one of three counts against Naaman Butcher.

Special Prosecutor Edward H. Herman, Charleston, said the case of Grady Jackson will be the first to come up for trial Tuesday. The others scheduled for trials through the rest of the week are Ernest L. (Red) Hager, Floyd Dingess, Imogene Adkins, Ira Evans, Betty Lunsford, George Maynus and Keith Cook.

The group was indicted by a special grand jury which investigated alleged irregularities in the May 10 primary in Logan County.

Four Of Five Who Fled Jail Captured

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (UPI)—Four of five prisoners who fled from the Tuscarawas County Jail Sunday night were apprehended and returned to their cells here Monday.

Only Willie Gootch, 42, New Philadelphia, a trusty, remained at large. He was convicted last week of breaking and entering and grand larceny, and also was held as a parole violator from the Ohio Penitentiary.

Doe Season

It was established that Garrett County has about 2,000 beaver and that a limited number are to be found in Allegany County.

The permits, it was explained, would be issued only when necessary.

TAPED GREETING

NEW YORK (UPI)—An increasingly popular method to exchange Christmas greetings, especially among families who are miles apart during the holiday season, is magnetic recording tape.

Almost 3 million families are expected to exchange these "living letters" this season, according to Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., which produces most of the world's magnetic recording tape.

It has been estimated that some 47 million Americans eat ice cream every day.

CHARLESTON POSTMASTER James O. Lakin said the sponsors had agreed to eliminate a provision requiring a $1 entry fee for the program which raised some $20,000 annually for the Salvation Army at Christmas time.

However, Lakin said the departments' general counsel would not alter his original stand on the program where prizes were offered to a winner. All proceeds went to the Salvation Army.

"It looks like a bleak Christmas," a Salvation Army official said Monday. "We won't be able to take care of all the people asking for our help" during the Christmas season.

Hospital Work Is Cited In New Booklet

A brochure, "The Children Hospital Story," on the 50-year-old Baltimore institution headed by a specialist who conducts regular clinics here, is available to groups and individuals interested in its work, Frederick L. Weber, chairman of the board, announced.

The medical staff at the hospital is headed by Dr. George O. Eaton, who has held orthopedic clinics at the Allegany County League for Crippled Children for years.

The honorary medical director is Dr. George E. Bennett, who also has been in charge of league clinics for many years.

Many of the young patients from this section have been sent to the Children's Hospital for corrective treatment.

The Children's Hospital, formerly Children's Hospital School continues to provide for sub-acute and chronic polio patients, but is widening the scope of surgical services for children and adults, and is able to provide for those who need acute care.

One of the visiting orthopedic surgeons is Dr. Thomas E. Hunt Jr., nephew of J. William Hunt, this city, retired editor of the Cumberland Sunday Times.

Inquiries about the hospital and the brochure should be addressed to Christian M. Christiansen, The Children's Hospital, Greenspring Avenue, Baltimore 11, Md.

gram of federal aid for school construction. A bill passed in one branch of Congress last session would have given Allegany County $320,000 a year in federal aid for school construction on the basis of $20 for each of 16,000 pupils.

All three county commissioners, John J. Rowan, John T. Mason and William A. Wilson, were present at last night's meeting along with their attorney, Leslie J. Clark. Although they asked some questions about the program, they did not reach any over-all decision concerning it.

Mr. Webster and the members of the Board of Education expressed hope that the county commissioners might reach a decision on the program in the near future so that the school authorities might discuss the program with Allegany County's members of the General Assembly before the 90-day session of the General Assembly begins in Annapolis in early January.

Others who attended last night's meeting included J. Goodloe Jackson, Mrs. Richard Winer, T. Donald Shires and Mrs. Albert C. Cook, all members of the County Board of Education; Mr. Winer, who is chairman of the County Planning and Zoning Commission, and three representatives of the general public, Fred A. Hutchison, Mrs. C. Arthur Nave and James Niland.

Major League Clubs Draft 22 Players For $472,000

DRAFTED BY WASHINGTON — Pitchers Ray Semproch, left, and John Gabler were drafted yesterday by the new Washington club of the American League. They are the club's first two players. Semproch, 29, a right-hander, was picked from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League. Gabler, 30, a righthander, also, was taken from the New York Yankees Richmond farm of the International League.

John Gabler, Semproch Go To Senators

By NORMAN MILLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The new Washington Senators did surprisingly well in the baseball draft Monday when they picked up a pair of bargain-basement pitchers who showed flashes of brilliance during previous trials in the majors.

John Gabler, who pitched part of last season with the New York Yankees, and Roman Semproch, who won 13 games for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1957, were left behind for the Senators to grab at $25,000 each after the existing major league clubs had finished their drafting of minor league players.

The two righthanders are the first players on the roster of the new Pete Quesada - owned club which hopes to operate in the American League in 1961 if the league can straighten out its expansion muddle.

Stengel Likes Gabler

Gabler, 30, was a favorite of ex-Yankee Manager Casey Stengel, for whom he pitched during parts of the 1959 and 1960 seasons. He had a 3-3 record for the Yanks last season and compiled a 2.75 earned run average with Richmond of the International League for whom he won four and lost four.

Semproch, 29, had a 3-0 record when sent to the minors by the Tigers last year. He then won 11 games and lost only two at Spokane of the Pacific Coast League. In 1957, he was the first National League pitcher to win 10 games before he tailed off to a 13-11 record.

In all, the Senators and 12 other major league clubs drafted 22 players for a total of $472,000. The players who previously had been on a major league roster went for $25,000 each; the first year men brought $12,000 apiece.

Philis Pick Coleman

The Philadelphia Phillies, who drafted first by virtue of their last-place finish in the National League, made Clarence Coleman, a 23-year-old catcher who batted .257 for Montreal in the International League, their No. 1 "sleeper" choice in the draft.

The 5-foot-9, 160-pound Coleman was one of seven catchers selected by the major league clubs. He hit 13 doubles, 6 triples and 5 homers for Montreal. Coleman was drafted from the Spokane roster of the Pacific Coast League.

Other interesting sidelights on the draft: The Chicago White Sox were the most active, drafting four players. They claimed catcher Bob Roselli from Sacramento, infielder Tony Roig from Spokane, and pitchers Winston Brown from Louisville and Ed Drapcho from Toronto.

Bill Vecek of the White Sox tried to select a fifth player in Ted Davidson, a 19-year-old pitcher, but Commissioner Ford Frick said he would not allow the

Alston Signs 8th Contract With Dodgers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Walt Alston signed a new one-year contract to manage the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday, making him the senior National League pilot in point of continuous service.

The contract was the eighth straight one Alston has signed as manager of the Dodgers.

Dodger Vice President E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi announced the re-hiring of Alston after an organizational meeting. Bavasi also said that Clay Bryant of Zanesville, Ohio, had been named a Dodger coach, replacing former Pittsburgh Pirate manager Bobby Bragan.

In another organizational change, Fresno Thompson, who had been farm director of the Dodgers, became president of the Omaha club in the American Association. Bryant, one time Chicago Cub pitcher, has managed in the Dodger farm system since 1945, including triple-A clubs at Montreal and St. Paul.

This shaped up as a test case of Frick's roster - freezing edict in the expansion program.

Dodgers Lose Seven

Pitchers were most in demand in the draft, 11 being selected from the minor league lists, along with 7 catchers, 3 infielders and an outfielder.

The total of 21 players drafted exceeded last year's 14, who went for a combined sum of $34,000.

The Los Angeles Dodgers lost the largest number of farmhands of any major league club. Seven players were drafted from their minor league clubs, including four from Spokane.

Of the first-year youngsters selected, none represented a substantial cash outlay. The highest-priced bonus boys all had been "protected" from the draft.

The Kansas City Athletics with second choice in the draft, selected pitcher Ed Keegan from Buffalo on the first round; pitcher Bill Kunkel from St. Paul on the second round and later tapped bonus pitcher Paul Seiz from Toronto.

Twins Draft Three

The Minnesota Twins, formerly the Washington Senators, were the only other team which drafted more than two players. They picked catcher Ron Henry from Toronto on the first round and two bonus players, pitchers Gerry Arrigo from the San Diego roster and Gary Dotter from Miami.

The Chicago Cubs drafted catcher Facundo Barragan from Sacramento and bonus pitcher Wayne Carlander, from Spokane; the Cincinnati Reds chose second baseman Jim Baumer from Salt Lake City; the Detroit Tigers drafted pitcher Jim Donohue from Spokane; the Indians claimed catcher Valmy Thomas from Rochester; the San Francisco Giants took bonus outfielder Arlo Engel from St. Paul, and the Baltimore Orioles tapped catcher Hank Foiles from Denver and bonus catcher Dave Massarelli from Columbus.

The Boston Red Sox, in a delayed draft choice selected infielder Billy Harrell from Buffalo. Harrell who previously had a trial with the Cleveland Indians, batted .293 with Rochester last season.

The Yankees, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles had full 40-man rosters and could not draft. The Boston Red Sox passed up their opportunity to select

NO U. S. TRAINING—Two of the outstanding baseball players in Japan, Takeshi Kuwata (left), third baseman for the Taiyo Whales, and Tadashi Sugita, pitcher for the Nankai Hawks, have been invited by the San Francisco Giants to work out in the Tacoma, Wash., farm club camp of the Giants next spring. The invite was made during the Giants' barnstorming trip to Japan. It is doubtful if the two will come to the United States, however.

BASKETBALL, once a sissy game played with peach baskets and a soccer ball in gym classes purely for exercise, is with us again and continues to grow and grow.

When the late Dr. James Naismith invented the game back in 1891, he was quoted as saying that "it is a game easy to play at, yet difficult to become perfect in."

He couldn't visualize how the game would become so popular and players so perfect in it.

And yet today, nearly 70 years later, it is played in many countries, by millions of boys and girls, and men who get paid for it—and have perfected it.

THE STORY of how basketball started is worth repeating.

Dr. Naismith, a member of the staff of the Y.M.C.A. college at Springfield, Mass., was instructed by the head of the physical education department to get up a gymnasium game to entertain and keep busy some prospective Y.M.C.A. secretaries who worked out in the school gym.

Out of this came a game in which a soccer ball was used and thrown from one player to another on a team and then into a peach basket the janitor uncovered. Because the railing of the balcony of the Springfield gym was 10 feet above the floor, the peach basket was placed there.

Dr. Naismith listed 13 rules to play the game and posted a typewritten copy on the gym door. Rule No. 8 stated that "a goal shall be made when the ball is thrown or batted from the ground into the basket and stays there."

At first all 18 members of the class played, nine on a side. Later the number was cut to seven, then to five.

Y.M.C.A. secretaries carried the game to far parts of the world.

BASKETBALL gained its first national impetus when it was adopted by eastern universities, including Yale and Penn. It spread across the country and into foreign lands and today is played in grade school, high school, college, as a professional sport and in many backyards where the neighborhood youngsters play it hour after hour.

It was professionalized in 1894 with teams in New York, Brooklyn and Southern New Jersey. It lasted only a short while but in 1898 a New England league was formed. This, too, fell apart and it wasn't until 1925 that the American Basketball League was formed with nine cities in the fold.

This had interest, but it, too, died when college basketball carnivals were introduced in New York and other major cities.

In 1946 the present National Basketball Assoc. was organized.

P. C. Owens Injured On "Alley Oop" Play

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Flanker back R. C. Owens, one of the stars in the San Francisco 49ers' 30-22 surprise victory over Baltimore Sunday, suffered a shoulder separation in scoring the first of his two touchdowns.

Owens leaped high into the air in the final seconds of the first half to haul down an "alley-oop" pass from John Brodie for the 49ers' opening touchdown. He hurt his shoulder as he landed.

Dr. James O'Connor said it isn't known how long Owens will be out of action.

Five Race Tracks Drop Out Of TRA

NEW YORK (UPI)—Five race tracks, three of them charter members, quit the Thoroughbred Racing Associations, Inc. Monday apparently over dissatisfaction with Executive Vice-President Spencer Drayton.

Gene Mori, president of Garden State Park and Hialeah Park, pulled out both organizations; Mrs. Marjorie Lindheimer Everett, who recently gained majority control of Washington Park and Arlington Park, withdrew both Chicago tracks; and Hubert Howard of Balmoral, another Illinois organization, also quit.

Hialeah, Washington and Arlington helped organize the TRA in 1942.

The withdrawal reduced TRA membership from 48 to 43 of the nation's race tracks. The members are holding their annual convention in New York now and the withdrawals occurred at an executive session of the board of directors.

Melvin Arbaugh and Fred Martin, Westminister, also were selected while Gary Mulligan, Camper quarterback, received honorable mention.

Allegany beat Martinsburg 42-0, and Fort Hill won by the score of 35-0.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Ron Northey was named a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday, filling the vacancy left by Mickey Vernon, who recently was named manager of the Washington Senators.

The 40-year-old Northey played the outfield for the Phillies, Cardinals, Reds, Cubs and White Sox. He was a teammate of Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh with the Phillies during the 40's.

The invite was made during the Giants' barnstorming trip to Japan. It is doubtful if the two will come to the United States, however.

Maxwell Trophy Goes To Bellino

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Star halfback Joe Bellino was selected unanimously Monday as recipient of the Robert W. Maxwell trophy. The 22-year-old Annapolis first-classman, who rushed for 834 yards on 168 carries for a 4.96 yard average, will receive the trophy at the Maxwell Club's 24th annual dinner here Feb. 6.

The trophy was presented last year to Penn State's Richie Lattas.

The club said the Bert Bell Memorial Award to the outstanding National Football League player will be selected at a later date. It was given for the first time to Johnny Unitas last year.

Gophers Get 21 Of 35 First Place Ballots

UPI Board Places Iowa 2nd; Huskies 5th And Navy 6th

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Minnesota's Golden Gophers, in an amazing comeback from a disastrous year, Monday were named the 1960 National Major College Football Champions by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Gophers, co-champions of the Big Ten and already picked for the Rose Bowl, received the first-place votes of 21 of the 35 famous coaches who comprise the board.

The selection, which earns Minnesota a permanent championship trophy to be presented by UPI, capped a stunning season in which the Gophers won eight games and lost only one compared to their record of 2-7 only one year ago at a time when Coach Murray Warmath was being severely criticized.

Iowa Finishes Second

Iowa, whose only loss in nine games was by 27-10 to Minnesota, finished second and Mississippi, unbeaten though tied once, was third. Orange Bowl-bound Missouri was fourth and Rose Bowl-bound Washington fifth.

Minnesota's only loss this season was by 23-14 to Purdue the week after the Iowa victory. In other games, Minnesota beat Nebraska, 26-14; Indiana, 42-0; Northwestern, 7-0; Illinois, 21-10; Michigan, 10-0; Kansas State, 48-7; and Wisconsin, 26-7.

Thus ended a season that began at Minnesota with the official brochure venturing only "mild optimism" for the Gopher's cause. Minnesota had climaxed a steady rise in the weekly UPI ratings by taking the national lead after the win over Iowa with an all-time record of 348 points. However, the Gophers dropped out of the lead after losing to Purdue before reclaiming it after beating Wisconsin.

Receives 326 Points
In the final ratings, the Gophers received 21 first-place votes, nine seconds, four thirds, and one eighth. With points allotted on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first through 10th, that gave Minnesota a triumphant 326 points.

Of the 14 first-place votes missed by the Gophers, nine went to Mississippi and five to Iowa. However, Iowa scored heavily in second place votes and wound up with 300 points to Mississippi's 284.

Missouri, fifth last week, moved up to fourth with 194 points while Washington, fourth last week, dropped to fifth with 188.

Navy, triumphant over Army, moved up one notch to sixth place, dropping Arkansas to seventh. Ohio State held steady at No. 8. Tied for ninth place was Kansas, which was 10th last week, and Alabama, jumping all the way from 19th place on its 3-0 win over Auburn. That defeat knocked Auburn out of the top 10.

Cadets Elect Casp

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Mike Casp, a rugged 205-pound guard from Beaver, Pa., was elected captain of the 1961 Army football squad at a meeting of lettermen Monday.

Dennis Ralston, Chuck McKinley Upset Aussies

Defeat Laver, Mark, Reach Semi-Finals

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Youngsters Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston scored a major upset over a top Australian team Monday in the quarter-finals of doubles in the Victorian tennis championships, and were tabbed as a possible U. S. Davis Cup combination.

McKinley, 19, and Ralston, 18, rallied to upset Aussies Rod Laver and Bob Mark, 12-14, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5, and qualified to meet Italian stars Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the semifinals on Wednesday.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., a more experienced U. S. team, also gained the semi-finals with a 6-6, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7 victory over Bob Hewitt and Bob Howe of Australia. They will meet the top-seeded Australian team of Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, who beat John Fraser and Doug Reid, 7-5, 6-3, 10-8.

David Freed, non-playing captain of the U. S. cup team, said he will use either the Ralston-McKinley or MacKay-Buchholz doubles team against Italy, but will not consider breaking up the teams.

"It all depends on how Ralston and McKinley go against Pietrangeli and Sirola in Wednesday's semi-finals," said Freed. "If they win, they could play in Perth."

AA Dissatisfied With Griffith's Indemnity Offer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Association, dissatisfied with Calvin Griffith's offer of indemnity for the Minneapolis and St. Paul territories, Monday threatened legal action against the old Washington Senators.

Griffith, president of the Washington club which announced its move to Minneapolis-St. Paul last October, had offered $50,000 damages for the invasion of the Twin City territory.

Jim Burris, newly elected president of the American Association, said his league was "in a disturbed frame of mind" over the failure of Griffith to present what it considered a realistic figure. He declined to say how much indemnity the league was asking.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Gets Miami Franchise

Caracas, Venezuela, Considered As 8th International Club

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The International League formally approved the transfer of the Miami franchise to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Monday and is considering the addition of Caracas, Venezuela, as the eighth club in the circuit.

Owner Bill MacDonald of the Miami Marlins received permission to move his club to San Juan and league officials immediately announced the Toronto Maple Leafs would open the 1961 season by playing in Puerto Rico on April 18.

"We still haven't decided on the eighth club, but we are giving serious consideration to Caracas because its only about 500 miles from San Juan," said a league spokesman.

"We're also considering Montreal and Syracuse," he added. "That won't be settled for awhile yet."

In the event Caracas is approved, the International League will be composed of clubs in four different territories — the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and Venezuela.

The International League confirmed that a franchise will be operated in Jersey City again next year. The Cincinnati Reds said they will fulfill the working agreement made by their former general manager, Gabe Paul.

Jersey City's franchise was reactivated last summer when the league pulled out of Havana because of political unrest there.

Maxwell Trophy Goes To Bellino

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Star halfback Joe Bellino was selected unanimously Monday as recipient of the Robert W. Maxwell trophy.

The 22-year-old Annapolis first-classman, who rushed for 436 yards on 168 carries for a 4.96 yard average, will receive the trophy at the Maxwell Club's 24th annual dinner here Feb. 6.

The trophy was presented last year to Penn State's Richie Lucas.

The club said the Bert Bell Memorial Award to the outstanding National Football League player will be selected at a later date. It was given for the first time to Johnny Unitas last year.

Gophers Get 21 Of 35 First Place Ballots

UPI Board Places Iowa 2nd; Huskies 5th And Navy 6th

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Minnesota's Golden Gophers, in an amazing comeback from a disastrous year, Monday were named the 1960 National Major College Football Champions by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Gophers, co-champions of the Big Ten and already picked for the Rose Bowl, received the first-place votes of 21 of the 35 famous coaches who comprise the board.

The selection, which earns Minnesota a permanent championship trophy to be presented by UPI, capped a stunning season in which the Gophers won eight games and lost only one compared to their record of 2-7 only one year ago at a time when Coach Murray Warmath was being severely criticized.

Iowa Finishes Second

Iowa, whose only loss in nine games was by 27-10 to Minnesota, finished second and Mississippi, unbeaten though tied once, was third. Orange Bowl-bound Missouri was fourth and Rose Bowl-bound Washington fifth.

Minnesota's only loss this season was by 23-14 to Purdue the week after the Iowa victory. In other games, Minnesota beat Nebraska, 26-14; Indiana, 42-0; Northwestern, 7-0; Illinois, 21-10; Michigan, 10-0; Kansas State, 48-7; and Wisconsin, 26-7.

This ended a season that began at Minnesota with the official brochure venturing only "mild optimism" for the Gopher cause. Minnesota had climaxed a steady rise in the weekly UPI ratings by taking the national lead after the win over Iowa with an all-time record of 348 points. However, the Gophers dropped out of the lead after losing to Purdue before reclaiming it after beating Wisconsin.

Receives 326 Points

In the final ratings, the Gophers received 21 first-place votes, nine seconds, four thirds, and one eighth. With points allotted on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first through 10th, that gave Minnesota a triumphant 326 points.

Of the 14 first-place votes missed by the Gophers, nine went to Mississippi and five to Iowa. However, Iowa scored heavily in second place votes and wound up with 300 points to Mississippi's 284.

Missouri, fifth last week, moved up to fourth with 194 points while Washington, fourth last week, dropped to fifth with 188.

Navy, triumphant over Army, moved up one notch to sixth place, dropping Arkansas to seventh. Ohio State held steady at No. 8.

Tied for ninth place was Kansas, which was 10th last week, and Alabama, jumping all the way from 19th place on its 3-0 win over Auburn. That defeat knocked Auburn out of the top 10.

Cadets Elect Casp

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Mike Casp, a rugged 205-pound guard from Beaver, Pa., was elected captain of the 1961 Army football squad at a meeting of lettermen Monday.

FLOP AT FIRST—A flop when he failed to stick with the team at the start of the season after a big buildup, Frank Howard Dodgers' outfielder, came back after 26 games in the minors to hit 23 homers for the Dodgers and win the N.L. "Rookie of the Year" award. Howard is former Ohio State cage star.

Yankees Sign Payne, Hyattsville Hurler

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, continuing their push in the bonus market, Monday signed Charlie Payne, 19, right-handed pitcher from Hyattsville, Md., and George Washington University. The amount of the bonus was not disclosed.

Payne, a sophomore who stands 6-3 and weighs 195 pounds, was assigned to Binghamton of the Class A Eastern League.

Retains Title

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Johnny Jarrett, 117½, retained his Australian bantamweight title Monday night by stopping flyweight champion Alan Gibbards, 112½, in the fifth round of a scheduled 15-round fight. The referee stopped the bout at 2:40 of the fifth after Gibbards had been knocked down twice.

Dennis Ralston, Chuck McKinley Upset Aussies

Defeat Laver, Mark, Reach Semi-Finals

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Youngsters Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston scored a major upset over a top Australian team Monday in the quarter-finals of doubles in the Victorian tennis championships, and were tabbed as a possible U. S. Davis Cup combination.

McKinley, 19, and Ralston, 18, rallied to upset Aussies Rod Laver and Bob Mark, 12-14, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5, and qualified to meet Italian stars Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the semifinals on Wednesday.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., a more experienced U. S. team, also gained the semi-finals with a 6-6, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7 victory over Bob Hewitt and Bob Howe of Australia. They will meet the top-seeded Australian team of Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, who beat John Fraser and Doug Reid, 7-5, 6-3, 10-8.

David Freed, non-playing captain of the U. S. cup team, said he will use either the Ralston-McKinley or MacKay-Buchholz doubles team against Italy, but will not consider breaking up the teams.

"It all depends on how Ralston and McKinley go against Pietrangeli and Sirola in Wednesday's semi-finals," said Freed. "If they win, they could play in Perth."

Beard To Manage In Sally League

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Ted Beard, former outfielder for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was named manager of Columbia, S.C., in the South Atlantic League Monday by the parent Cincinnati Reds.

Beard managed Indianapolis of the American Association during the last two-and-a-half months last season.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Gets Miami Franchise

Caracas, Venezuela, Considered As 8th International Club

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The International League formally approved the transfer of the Miami, Fla., franchise to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Monday and is considering the addition of Caracas, Venezuela, as the eighth club in the circuit.

Owner Bill MacDonald of the Miami Marlins received permission to move his club to San Juan and league officials immediately announced the Toronto Maple Leafs would open the 1961 season by playing in Puerto Rico on April 18.

"We still haven't decided on the eighth club, but we are giving serious consideration to Caracas because its' only about 500 miles from San Juan," said a league spokesman.

"We're also considering Montreal and Syracuse," he added. "That won't be settled for awhile yet."

In the event Caracas is approved, the International League will be composed of clubs in four different territories — the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and Venezuela.

The International League confirmed that a franchise will be operated in Jersey City again next year. The Cincinnati Reds said they will fulfill the working agreement made by their former general manager, Gabe Paul.

Jersey City's franchise was reactivated last summer when the league pulled out of Havana because of political unrest there.

AA Dissatisfied With Griffith's Indemnity Offer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Association, dissatisfied with Calvin Griffith's offer of indemnity for the Minneapolis and St. Paul territories, Monday threatened legal action against the old Washington Senators.

Griffith, president of the Washington club which announced its move to Minneapolis-St. Paul last October, had offered $50,000 damages for the invasion of the Twin City territory.

Jim Burris, newly elected president of the American Association, said his league was "in a disturbed frame of mind" over the failure of Griffith to present what it considered a realistic figure. He declined to say how much indemnity the league was asking.

Special Show Heralds Child Guidance Week
By ALBERT W. WIESE
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An outstanding list of top motion picture and TV talent will get together Sunday, Dec. 4, for an hour-long nationwide program on the problems of children and the treatment of these problems.

The program (over NBC-TV) will climax Child Guidance Week with the time furnished by three national advertisers as a public service. The performers will receive only guild scale, a slight fraction of what they would receive on a regular program.

Producing the program is Michael Abbott of New York. It has been named "Something Special."

Five Years' Work
"The American Child Guidance Foundation has worked five years planning this program," said Abbott.

The actors were selected by the foundation's executive director Dr. Edgar B. Phillips.

"At several of his lectures on child guidance Dr. Phillips would pass out lists of 200 actors' names," Abbott said. "He would ask the audience to check the 10 they thought had done the most for children in this country."

He said that the 10 with the most checks were invited to take part in the program.

"Every one of those asked accepted willingly," he added.

The show is being taped in 22 segments and these will be patched together as a single show.

Those who will appear on "Something Special" include Janet Blair, Nat King Cole, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Arlene Francis, Dave Garroway, Sam Levenson, Art Linkletter, Garry Moore and Jane Wyatt. Robert Young will serve as host.

"This is not going to be like a telethon where the stars just make an appearance," said Abbott. "In this show they will talk with children and then go into their specialty."

He said a highlight of the program will be a quartet made up of members of a Los Angeles family — aged 5, 6, 7 and 9. There are two boys and two girls in the singing group that was discovered by Spike Jones.

"While the chief purpose of 'Something Special' will be to provide a full hour of good entertainment," said Abbott, "we also will strive to draw the attention of the public to the three main themes of National Child Guidance Week."

Independence Was Christmas Gift
ORONO, Maine (UPI) — The Christmas of 1776 was "America's greatest Christmas," according to University of Maine Prof. George Billias.

"He noted Maine historian said Washington crossed the Delaware on that bitter cold night to launch a stabbing surprise attack against the Hessians who were still recovering from their holiday revelry.

This victory, he concluded "gave the nation a priceless Christmas gift — a giant step toward American independence."

Battle Against Yaws Gains Headway In Indonesia
JOGJAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Outside world until the U.N. Children's Fund and the World Health Organization joined forces with the Indonesian government for a nationwide campaign.

One of Indonesia's most widespread diseases under control. The disease is yaws, a crippling skin disease which is highly contagious. Also known as framboesia, yaws begins with a small boil that erupts through the skin, corrodes the flesh and — in its advanced stages — attacks the bones, disfiguring and maiming. It is caused by a spirochete much like that of syphilis, but is not venereal and spreads mostly among children.

The organization is the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), which responded to an Indonesian request in 1950 and provided penicillin, vehicles and all types of medical supplies to launch the world's largest campaign against yaws. The World Health Organization also helped by giving technical guidance.

Receives Dutch Degree
The doctor is Kodijat of Jogjakarta, the man who perfected the method for treatment of yaws and the use of penicillin for curing it.

Kodijat, a man who has witnessed plagues on his people for almost a half-century as a medical doctor, began seeking an effective cure for yaws as long ago as 1934. It was after he returned from the Netherlands where he had received a Dutch medical degree in 1952 that he worked out new treatment methods that have proved so effective. Assigned as health officer in Kediri, Central Java, he found the clinics crowded with yaws patients undergoing the old arsenical treatment, an effective but difficult cure. This treatment requires repeated shots over an extended period, making an effective control program impossible in such a doctor-short nation as Indonesia, where there is only one doctor for each 60,000 persons.

"Months of careful study gave birth to his systematic method to fight yaws, involving a continuous cycle of examination for everybody, immediate treatment with penicillin, re-examinations and treatment," a UNICEF report on Kodijat's work said.

Unknown To Outside World
The UNICEF report said this method was acknowledged earlier by the Far Eastern Inter-Governmental Conference on Rural Hygiene, but added: "The method was not generally known to the

Little Known Man Is Top TV Set Designer
By JOE ST. AMANT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television viewers may take for granted the sets for such productions as "The Shirley Temple Show," but these things are the painstaking products of the most agile and artistic brains available.

Behind every watch there's a watchmaker and behind every set there's a set designer. These Leonardo Da Vinci types are well-paid and well-known in the television industry but virtually unknown to the public.

Among the top names in this field is Jay Krause, who can turn a TV script into a thing of beauty and at the same time provide the functional necessities within the stage limits of TV.

Works With Dinah
Krause has designed sets for the Temple extravaganzas and in past years has worked with such stars as Bob Hope, Jerry Lewis, Dinah Shore and Steve Allen.

Under contract to NBC as art director, he still finds time for a few sidelines such as interior decorating and designing sets for legitimate stage shows.

Art is not just an occupation with Krause — it's a way of life. "How do you get to be a set designer?" he asked. "It's hard to say. I just kind of fell into it. A general education is best for this business. And of course you have to have an interest in acting. It's better if you've done a little acting, even in an amateur way."

Is Rare Combination
Krause is that rare combination of a man who has great imagination and yet can do things well with his hands. He can hammer a straight nail or slap a set with a paint brush, if necessary.

Ahead of the actual set construction, he is the man who must make the blueprints to fit the script — in most cases.

"The 'Bob Hope Show' is different," he laughed. "I never see a script and I have to improvise as we go along. His sets are fairly simple. You've got to have at least five exits — makes him sound like an escape artist."

Krause, now in his early 30's, got interested in set designing for stage productions at Pepperdine College, a small but culturally vibrant Los Angeles school.

After graduation, he worked at Laguna Beach on little theater productions in the Southern California art colony, building sets, from scratch. He gravitated to NBC in 1951.

Gets Big Break
And he gravitated into the interior decorating business when he redesigned the home of an NBC executive for a lavish party. Owners of the Brown Derby Restaurants saw the job and liked it. He then re-did both the Hollywood and Beverly Hills Brown Derbies.

For the legitimate stage, he has done about 75 shows, many of them at Hollywood's Huntington Hartford Theater including "Joy Ride," "The Rainmaker," and "A Day by the Sea."

To prod his imagination and for purposes of authenticity, Krause depends on an extensive personal library of magazine clippings. This library which grows day by day is carefully cross-indexed under such headings as "Italian (architecture)," "Italian (art)," "fairy tales" and the like.

In his spare time, he and his wife, Peggy, are redecorating a home they just purchased in the Hollywood hills. It's a kind of Moorish castle carved out of a hill and may be his greatest production yet.

Do-It-Yourself Christmas Tree
NEW YORK (UPI) — Interested in trying a do-it-yourself Christmas decoration?

A colorful 6-foot Christmas tree for the door isn't too hard to make with a couple of yards of latex foam sheeting, some colored plastic sheeting and some rubber cement.

Cut a giant cone out of the latex foam sheeting 4 1/2 feet high and 2 feet wide at the base.

Tack it to the door, pointed end up, as the "tree." Trim with criss-crossed strips of gold ribbons cut from a sheet of plastic. Glue to the foam rubber with the rubber cement and add a row of gold bows or little gold balls.

Cut a graceful urn from the gold plastic sheeting and tack in place directly below the tree.

Rayonier Optimistic
NEW YORK (AP) — Rayonier Inc. will spend about $30 million for capital improvements in 1960-61, Russell F. Erickson, president, said Monday.

The size of the program reflects company optimism over the future of the cellulose industries, Erickson said.

ONE POINT OF VIEW
NEW YORK (UPI) — The hole in the doughnut was a quarter of an inch larger in 1961. The Donut Institute, which considers this phenomenon to be an economic weathervane, said the larger hole "is a sign of good times to come."

The sloth can turn its head completely around without moving its body.

School Board Unveils $4.9 Million Program

8-Point Plan Calls For Three New Buildings

An eight-point school building program for Allegany County, primarily in the Cumberland and Frostburg areas and calling for expenditures of about $4,900,000 was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners last night by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

The school superintendent explained that this tentative program was prepared with the backing of the County Board of Education following detailed discussions at the October and November meetings of the school board. Four of the five school board members were present at last night's meeting in the Board of Education Building to support the superintendent in his presentation.

Included in the eight-point plan are two new junior high schools, one new elementary school, additions to two existing elementary schools, an addition and changes in Beall High School, and conversion of two other existing schools to new uses.

More than $3,700,000 of the total would be spent on the two junior high schools, designed to relieve congestion on the presently overcrowded Fort Hill and Allegany high schools.

A $1,951,470 preliminary estimate was placed by Mr. Webster upon a proposed South Junior High School with a capacity of 1,000 for seventh and eighth graders in the area now served by Fort Hill. The preliminary estimate for North Junior High School, to take care of 800 capacity in the seventh and eighth grades in the area now served by Allegany is $1,786,600.

Three Frostburg Programs

The third largest item in the proposed program is $566,000 to build and equip a new Beall Elementary School in Frostburg. The school superintendent then proposed spending $25,000 to convert the present Beall Elementary School into a junior high school for Frostburg. The third plan for Frostburg is to spend $253,000 on the present Beall High School. Mr. Webster envisions $195,000 being spent to build three shops there and $58,500 for equipment and other changes, including the moving of the library from the fourth to first floor.

A $130,000 item in the school board's program is for building and equipping six additional rooms in the already overcrowded Parkside Elementary School in LaVale. Another $168,000 is earmarked for a six-room addition to Gephart Elementary School on Frederick Street in Cumberland. This project includes a small heating plant, toilets and other equipment.

The other conversion besides the Beall Elementary to Junior High School change is $10,000 to convert the now closed Carver School on Frederick Street to a community college. The money would go for science and library equipment.

Two final items in the proposed building program for which the school superintendent advanced no figures are for land purchases, which will vary depending upon location of sites and availability of sewerage and water facilities and some minor improvements in other areas which were not enumerated.

In presenting the preliminary cost estimates, Mr. Webster reminded the county commissioners that these are only rough approximations, arrived at with the assistance and experience of architects.

High Schools Crowded

The school superintendent devoted much of his presentation to a discussion of the size of Allegany and Fort Hill high schools and their overcrowded conditions. Allegany, for instance, was built in 1926 for a senior high school with an enrollment of 600. The 1934 addition increased its capacity another 450. The 1940 addition made it able to accommodate the school needs of 270 to 300 more children. The most recent addition of a gymnasium and several music and art classrooms did little to relieve congestion. Today, the school has an enrollment of 1,950 and was built, with its additions to handle no more than 1,400.

Fort Hill High School, constructed in 1936 to take care of 1400 to 1500 students, now has an enrollment of more than 2,000.

Mr. Webster explained that the projected program would concentrate the seventh and eighth grades in separate junior high schools to feed the three largest high schools of the county, Fort Hill, Allegany and Beall. The three high schools then would have enrollment from the ninth through the 12th grades.

Concerning the financing of the program, the school superintendent pointed out the assurance of state incentive funds of at least $235,000 and possibly as high as $267,000 in view of a new recommendation of the James Commission. In addition, he pointed out that President-elect John F. Kennedy had campaigned on a pro-

Franklin St. Widening Is Step Nearer

The widening of Franklin Street moved a step forward yesterday when the Mayor and Council approved an order to pay for the removal of two structures along the route.

The order provided for the payment of $400 to Stelmor R. Flanagan for razing buildings at 700-702 North Centre Street and 703-705 North Mechanic Street.

The properties were acquired several months ago for about $13,000.

Plans on file at City Hall for a number of years call for widening the 16-foot roadway of the former alley to 30 feet and to install five-foot sidewalk on either side.

The Street Department had planned to include the project in its 1960 construction program.

The work was delayed, however, by difficulties in securing satisfactory bids for razing the structures.

It is considered unlikely by City Hall staffers that any work will be done on the project until next spring, when the 1961 construction season begins.

Saturday night's regular dance program will be "Past Governors' Night," and all past governors of the local organization will be honored. Music for dancing will be provided by Pat and Rudy Sullivan.

The annual children's Christmas party is scheduled from noon until 2 p.m. on December 24 at the Moose lodge. Movies will be shown and Santa Claus will visit the youngsters.

The services are held nightly at 7:30 p.m. and will continue until Sunday.

Rev. Hutchinson's talk tonight will be on "Four Reasons Why I Believe We Are Approaching the End of Time."

Christmas shopping hours were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association.

All stores, it was announced, will close at 5 p.m. on Christmas Eve.

Stores will remain closed for Christmas, which falls on Sunday, and on Monday, when the holiday will be observed. They will remain open until 9 p.m. on Tuesday, December 27.

Doe Season Is Urged For County

Proposals Heard By Legislators

Four additional legislative proposals were taken under consideration last night by Allegany County legislators.

Included were proposals for legislation against job discrimination against older workers for strengthening laws relating to the practice of optometry, suggested changes in hunting and fishing rules, and a doe season in Allegany County.

Legislators promised to take the proposals under consideration after the 90-day session of the General Assembly opens January 4.

The proposal for the open season on antlerless deer was presented by Urner Wigfield, an official of the Allegany Beagle Club and of the Citizen Hunters Committee.

He presented a petition signed by 2,005 citizens of Allegany County, asking that the Game and Inland Fish Commission be given the authority to establish an antlerless deer season in Allegany County.

The petitioners said that, if the commission granted the request, they favored a three-day antlerless deer season in addition to the present seven-day buck season.

Deer are on the increase in Allegany County, legislators were told, and are getting smaller and are moving out of some areas, becoming a problem for farmers and a menace on the highways.

Mr. Wigfield said the people he represented want the doe season so licensed hunters will have a chance at game "spotlighters" are getting.

Embezzlement Trial Today

A 21-year-old Piedmont, W. Va., man will be tried this afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court on a charge of embezzling over $600 from McIntyre Bakery, Inc.

The young man, Michael Bowman, was indicted by the October term of the grand jury, and has been held in the County Jail since October 18.

He has been charged with embezzling $603.43 from the baking company from December 1, 1959 to March 15, 1960. Bowman was employed by the bakery as a driver-salesman.

Today's hearing will be held before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris. John Sullivan, Cumberland and Frostburg attorney, will represent Bowman.

The appeal is being made in a letter which was signed last night by the legislators during a meeting in the Allegany County Court House.

It pointed out that as a result of the approval of a constitutional amendment there will be an additional judge in the circuit.

The legislators said Allegany County should have the position on the basis of tradition and need, pointing out that for 60 years prior to March 1958, two Circuit Court judges resided in Allegany County.

Chief Electrician C. B. Epps, who is in charge of the local Navy recruiting office, has been promoted to senior chief electrician.

Chief Epps' new promotion will become effective December 16.

A veteran of 17 years of Navy service, Chief Epps has been assigned to the local recruiting office since June 1959.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. in the church social room.

Salvation Army Yule Program Gets Under Way

Bernstein Named Committee Chairman

The Salvation Army is completing preparations for its annual Christmas Cheer program with the appointment of Milton Bernstein to serve as chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mr. Bernstein, who is treasurer of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, accepted the appointment at the board's monthly meeting yesterday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Some 300 dolls are being dressed for distribution at Christmas by the Salvation Army. The YMCA Auxiliary has assumed responsibility for dressing more than 100 of the dolls. Other individuals are helping in this project.

Captain Fred Overton, commanding officer at the Salvation Army Citadel, also announced yesterday that the SA still will be able to put the necessary finishing touches on good used toys so long as they are received this week. A truck is available to pick up the donated toys. Those who would like to contribute toys are requested to call the Citadel, PA 4-0860.

The SA also yesterday began the registration of families for Christmas food orders. They must report to the Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Monday through Friday this week and next. The final day for registration will be Monday, December 12, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

School Board Unveils $4.9 Million Program

8-Point Plan Calls For Three New Buildings

An eight-point school building program for Allegany County, primarily in the Cumberland and Frostburg areas and calling for expenditures of about $4,900,000 was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners last night by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

The school superintendent explained that this tentative program was prepared with the backing of the County Board of Education following detailed discussions at the October and November meetings of the school board. Four of the five school board members were present at last night's meeting in the Board of Education Building to support the superintendent in his presentation.

Included in the eight-point plan are two new junior high schools, one new elementary school, additions to two existing elementary schools, an addition and conversion of two other existing schools to new uses.

More than $3,700,000 of the total would be spent on the two junior high schools, designed to relieve congestion on the presently overcrowded Fort Hill and Allegany high schools.

A $1,951,470 preliminary estimate was placed by Mr. Webster upon a proposed South Junior High School with a capacity of 1,000 for seventh and eighth graders in the area now served by Fort Hill. The preliminary estimate for North Junior High School, to take care of 800 capacity in the seventh and eighth grades in the area now served by Allegany is $1,786,600.

Three Frostburg Programs

The third largest item in the proposed program is $566,000 to build and equip a new Beall Elementary School in Frostburg. The school superintendent then proposes spending $25,000 to convert the present Beall Elementary School into a junior high school for Frostburg. The third plan for Frostburg is to spend $253,000 on the present Beall High School. Mr. Webster envisions $195,000 being spent to build three shops there and $58,500 for equipment and other changes, including the moving of the library from the fourth to first floor.

A $130,000 item in the school board's program is for building and equipping six additional rooms in the already overcrowded Parkside Elementary School in LaVale. Another $168,000 is earmarked for a six-room addition to Gephart Elementary School on Frederick Street in Cumberland. This project includes a small heating plant, toilets and other equipment.

The other conversion besides the Beall Elementary to Junior High School change is $10,000 to convert the now closed Carver School on Frederick Street to a community college. The money would go for science and library equipment.

Two final items in the proposed building program for which the school superintendent advanced no figures are for land purchases, which will vary depending upon location of sites and availability of sewerage and water facilities and some minor improvements in other areas which were not enumerated.

In presenting the preliminary cost estimates, Mr. Webster reminded the county commissioners that these are only rough approximations, arrived at with the assistance and experience of architects.

High Schools Crowded

The school superintendent devoted much of his presentation to a discussion of the size of Allegany and Fort Hill high schools and their overcrowded conditions. Allegany, for instance, was built in 1926 for a senior high school with an enrollment of 600. The 1934 addition increased its capacity another 450. The 1940 addition made it able to accommodate the school needs of 270 to 300 more children. The most recent addition of a gymnasium and several music and art classrooms did little to relieve congestion. Today, the school has an enrollment of 1,950 and was built with its additions to handle no more than 1,400.

Fort Hill High School, constructed in 1936 to take care of 1400 to 1500 students, now has an enrollment of more than 2,000.

Mr. Webster explained that the projected program would concentrate the seventh and eighth grades in separate junior high schools to feed the three largest high schools of the county, Fort Hill, Allegany and Beall. The three high schools then would have enrollment from the ninth through the 12th grades.

Concerning the financing of the program, the school superintendent pointed out the assurance of state incentive funds of at least $235,000 and possibly as high as $267,000 in view of a new recommendation of the James Commission. In addition, he pointed out that President-elect John F. Kennedy had campaigned on a pro-

Franklin St. Widening Is Step Nearer

The widening of Franklin Street moved a step forward yesterday when the Mayor and Council approved an order to pay for the removal of two structures along the route.

The order provided for the payment of $400 to Stelmor R. Flanagan for razing buildings at 700-702 North Centre Street and 703-705 North Mechanic Street.

The properties were acquired several months ago for about $13,000.

Plans on file at City Hall for a number of years call for widening the 16-foot roadway of the former alley to 30 feet and to install five-foot sidewalk on either side.

The Street Department had planned to include the project in its 1960 construction program.

The work was delayed, however, by difficulties in securing satisfactory bids for razing the structures.

It is considered unlikely by City Hall staffers that any work will be done on the project until next spring, when the 1961 construction season begins.

Doe Season Is Urged For County

Proposals Heard By Legislators

Four additional legislative proposals were taken under consideration last night by Allegany County legislators.

Included were proposals for legislation against job discrimination against older workers for strengthening laws relating to the practice of optometry, suggested changes in hunting and fishing rules, and a doe season in Allegany County.

Legislators promised to take the proposals under consideration after the 90-day session of the General Assembly opens January 4.

The proposal for the open season on antlerless deer was presented by Urner Wigfield, an official of the Allegany Beagle Club and of the Citizen Hunters Committee.

He presented a petition signed by 2,005 citizens of Allegany County, asking that the Game and Inland Fish Commission be given the authority to establish an antlerless deer season in Allegany County.

Are On Increase

The petitioners said that, if the commission granted the request, they favored a three-day antlerless deer season in addition to the present seven-day buck season.

Deer are on the increase in Allegany County, legislators were told, and are getting smaller and are moving out of some areas, becoming a problem for farmers and a menace on the highways.

Mr. Wigfield said the people he represented want the doe season so licensed hunters will have a chance at game "spotlighters" are getting.

Outlines Program

A fourpoint program designed to assure better eye care for Marylanders was advocated by the Western Maryland Optometric Society.

Dr. William S. Firey, local optometrist, headed a four-member delegation which expressed concern with the visual welfare of Marylanders.

Asked was legislation to strengthen the powers of the Maryland Board of Examiners in Optometry, to prohibit unprofessional advertising, to eliminate incorporate and on-the-premises mercantile practices and to reaffirm the professional status of optometry.

The object, legislators were told, is to clean up the commercialism which exists in the profession by setting up minimum standards for eye examinations.

Firms which advertise examinations on the premises, it was explained, often give sketchy examinations and usually sell glasses to everyone, since the only way to pay for the examination is through the sale of glasses. An adequate examination, legislators were told, should take about 45 minutes.

Jobs After 40

Herman L. Myers, secretary of Cumberland Aerie 245, F. O. Eagles, appeared to urge support for the order's "Jobs After 40" program.

He presented copies of legislation passed by 11 states to assure job opportunities for workers in the 40-65-year range.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll said he introduced such a bill in the 1959 General Assembly which failed to get out of committee.

Legislation to eliminate discrimination because of age, Mr. Myers said, will be backed by the Order of Eagles in Maryland.

Urges Changes

Herbert L. Knepp, president of the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation, urged legislators to support a number of proposals for liberalizing the state's fish and game laws.

The first was to increase the powers of the commission which now are limited to setting bag and creel limits and the days of hunting and fishing.

Garrett County will ask that the commission allow beaver to be

Legislators Ask That Fourth Judge Be From County

Allegany County legislators will ask Governor Tawes to select the new judge for the Fourth Judicial Circuit from the Allegany County Bar.

The appeal is being made in a letter which was signed last night by the legislators during a meeting in the Allegany County Court House.

It pointed out that as a result of the approval of a constitutional amendment there will be an additional judge in the circuit.

The legislators said Allegany County should have the position on the basis of tradition and need, pointing out that for 60 years prior to March 1958, two Circuit Court judges resided in Allegany County.

Everett Prison Escapee Caught

Robinette Nabbed In Gettysburg

Scotty E. Robinette, 32, of RD 2, Everett, Pa., was arrested in Gettysburg, Pa., yesterday by Pennsylvania State Police who spotted the prison escapee in a stolen car in a Gettysburg service station.

Robinette was one of five men who overpowered a guard and escaped from the State Correctional Institution at Huntingdon, Pa., on November 14. He is the third of the five felons to be nabbed by police. Still at large are Raymond Wade, 36, of Washington, Pa., and Norman Keeler, 25, of Houston, Pa.

Two days after the five slipped away from the prison, Pennsylvania authorities caught Donald Davidson, 23, of Baden, Beaver County, Pa., as he crossed a road near Uniontown.

On November 17, Robert Harn was captured shortly after he and two others were cornered in Ebensburg after they had abducted two men and held another family captive for nearly two hours in their home.

The men were looking for clothing and entered the Ebensburg homes before they were spotted by police. Two of them escaped the net, however, when Harn was picked up.

Pennsylvania State Police said a state trooper spotted Robinette shortly before noon in a car which had been reported stolen earlier from Washington County. The vehicle was parked in a Gettysburg service station and Robinette gave up without a struggle.

He is being questioned by authorities in connection with several other crimes which have been committed recently in the area. State Police said he will be held in the Adams County Jail in Gettysburg pending completion of the investigation.

Meanwhile, police state, the stolen car has been returned to its rightful owner.

The two men still at large must be considered dangerous and may be armed, police said.

The five escapees had been serving time for crimes ranging from armed robbery to forgery.

Six building permits with a total value of $25,880 were issued by the City of Cumberland during November.

The November permits include one residence estimated to cost $10,000, a business at $8,000, three additions to residences and a $2,600 addition to a business establishment.

The two new construction projects were estimated by builders at $18,000 and the four additions and improvement at $7,880.

W. Va. Hunter Is Charged In Cousin's Death

Clarence Moats To Be Arraigned

Pendleton County authorities said last night that Clarence G. Moats, 24, will be charged with the negligent shooting of another person in the death of his cousin, 58-year-old Brison A. Moats, who was killed in a hunting accident Sunday near Franklin, W. Va.

Prosecuting Attorney George Sponaugle said Moats will be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Dewey H. Moyers in Franklin for the purpose of posting $1,000 bond on the misdemeanor charge.

Mr. Sponaugle said he will present the case to the Franklin County grand jury on December 12. The charge carries a penalty of a year in jail and the revocation of hunting privileges for five years upon conviction, the prosecutor stated.

He indicated that young Moats also faces charges of hunting on Sunday and hunting without a license.

West Virginia State Police investigated the shooting. They said the elder Moats was turkey hunting with his younger cousin about 12 miles south of Franklin near their home.

The two men were reportedly walking through the woods some distance from each other when Brison Moats was shot about 4 p. m. Police said the younger man told them he fired his shotgun at a moving object in the brush. Two double-0 pellets struck the victim in the chest and knee, police said.

The victim was found dead when Clarence and several other persons returned to the woods after the younger man went to his home and reported he thought he had shot someone.

Moats became West Virginia's 16th hunting fatality of the season, police said. Assisting in the investigation are the county's conservation officers, Gerald Gaines and Eldon Hottinger.
